ROOSEVELT IS SMITH CHOICE AS NOMINEE

Franklin D Roosevelt Named by Acclamation as Gubernatorial Candidate

GETS PARTY APPROVAL

Al More Confident of Empire State as Situation Is Simplified for Him

BY GEORGE R HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

Convention Hall, Rochester, N Y, Oct 2—Franklin D Roosevelt was unanimously nominated for the governorship of New York by the Democratic state convention here today.

Roosevelt's name was the only one to go before the convention and there was not one dissenting voice.

After Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York had placed Roosevelt's name before the convention, after former Mayor George R Lunn of Schenectady, himself an aspirant, had seconded it, Chairman Oliver Cabana of Buffalo, remarked:

"There being no other names placed in nomination all those in favor of the nomination of Franklin D Roosevelt will say aye."

A great roar of ayes rolled up to him.

There wasn't even a roll call of the counties. It was by acclamation.

Governor Al Smith wanted Roosevelt named and that was enough for the delegates.

Gov. Al Smith was a confident as well as a happy warrior today.

He was happy because he has accomplished what he came to Rochester to achieve—the nomination of Franklin D Roosevelt for the governorship of New York. He was confident because he believes with other Democratic leaders of the state, that Roosevelt is by thousands of votes stronger than any other candidate the Democrats could have named this year. And a strong candidate at the head of the New York state ticket has been next to Governor Smith's heart ever since he was nominated at Houston.

It was Roosevelt who dubbed Al Smith "the happy warrior" that was at the Houston convention. Twice before that at San Francisco in 1920, and at Madison Square Garden in 1924, it was Roosevelt who placed Al Smith's name in nomination for the presidency.

Stops at Rochester

Governor Smith stopped off at Rochester returning from his western tour determined to make Roosevelt his successor as nominee for governor. He did not have to sell the proposition to other leaders of the state.

They were all for it. The job was harder than that—he had to sell it to Roosevelt himself. Physically crippled as he is, Roosevelt has consistently pleaded against being named. Only yesterday he telegraphed Governor Smith that his health precluded his running.

It was early this morning, that Governor Smith reached for the telephone and asked for long distance. He got Roosevelt on the other end of the wire at Warm Springs, Ga, where his doctors keep him most of the time.

"All right. He'll run," the governor announced.

That was that. The rest of the ticket was speedily made up for presentation to the convention today, and the happy warrior of Roosevelt's fancy went to bed in the small hours of this morning, really happy and very confident that the state ticket in his own New York this November will be a help rather than a hindrance to his own candidacy.

New York Vital

New York and its 45 electoral votes are vital to the Smith candidacy if it is to be successful in November. No one has realized that any more keenly than Governor Smith himself. His nomination at Houston was due, in part to the conviction of Democratic leaders from other states that he was the only Democrat who could carry the Empire State for the presidency.

In his speech last night to the state convention Governor Smith began by making a report to his home folks on his western tour.

"Take it from me," he said. "I

European Countries Look With New Favor Upon Royalty; Monarchists Are Hopeful

BERLIN, Oct 2—The king business is picking up.

Encouraged by the success of the ruler of Albania in changing his name from plain Mr. Achmed Zogu to his royal majesty, Zogu first, king of the Albanians, and the veritable scramble of the big and little powers to recognize him, the monarchists of many nations are realizing fresh hopes.

In Germany, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Turkey and even South Africa the royalist movements have received new impetus from the coronation at Tirana. Even in Italy, which already has a king, a royal bee is reported to be buzzing in the bonnet of "Zogu's big brother, Il Duce Mussolini."

Zogu's success has been spread far and wide by an efficient and active press bureau which was one of the first things he acquired. And democracy, already dealt a body blow by the numerous dictatorships, either fascist or proletarian, which have sprung up all over Europe, seems to be due for another wallop.

In Germany there is being formed another "Kaiser party." Its aim is the promotion of monarchist sentiment and the preparation of a monarchist restoration. This party is the result of an internal conflict among the Nationalists precipitated by the Nationalist Deputy

Thrilling Stories Fill Pages of Monthly Magazine, Published Here 50 Years Ago

DISCOVERY of an accumulation of old-time Ohio newspapers and other publications in the attic of a farmhouse near Norton, one day last week, brought to light a bit of local history with which few present-day residents are acquainted—the fact that a monthly magazine was published in Marion a half century ago.

The discovery was made following purchase of the farm property by Glenn Morris, plant superintendent of the Huber Manufacturing Co. The stack of ancient papers was found in the attic while the house was being explored by the new owner and one of his friends.

Included were several copies of the Marion monthly magazine, "The Western Ledger," and issues of the Toledo Blade, then a weekly publication.

Say Webber Was Publisher

Although The Western Ledger did not print the name of any person identified with the publishing company, persons who are familiar with Marion's history say that the man back of it was Guy Webber, Marion's most noted "soldier of fortune."

Webber, who became prominent throughout the country for his various money-making ventures, was probably Marion's most widely-known citizen of a half century ago. Through his various promotion schemes, he became a millionaire, and although much of his wealth vanished later, he was reputed to be "well-fixed" at the time of his death.

The chief purpose of The Western Ledger, according to accounts, was to provide Webber with an agency for selling pictures which he marketed throughout the country. Evidence of this branch of his business is found on the cover page of the publication, which bore the announcement: "An elegant art portfolio and eight premium pictures to every subscriber."

Claimed Leadership

On the inside title page the magazine is designated as "The great family paper of the times," and also, "The handsomest paper published." While general appearance of the old copies seems to indicate that these representations might be exaggerated, there is possibility of Weber being at least partly justified in his claims.

Copies of the Ledger as well as of the Toledo Blade show that fiction of the thrilling type was popular in those days. This sort of material constituted the bulk of the contents of both publications. Practically the entire first page of the February, 1875 issue of The Western Ledger, for instance, is covered with an installment of "The Changed Will,' or the Heirs of Rockstone," with an illustration depicting a richly moustached gentleman disclosing a dark secret to the heroine.

Plenty of Thrills

Other masterpieces of fiction appearing in the various old papers were "Shadows on the Snow," "Ruth Darnel's Revenge," "Risen from the Grave, or the Dead Alive," "Her Mortal Enemy and How She Overcame Him; a story of a Woman's Ways."

Even good old Mark Twain went in for the sensational with an article in an 1876 copy of the Toledo Blade on "The [illegible] Carnival of Crime in Connecticut."

[illegible] appears to indicate that [illegible] days the country [illegible] and crime problems.

HELPFUL ERROR

MISTAKES are not always costly. At least that is what one local securities salesman has decided after receiving an order recently from a customer living in the country near Marion. Incidentally it might be stated that this particular salesman sells high class securities, not of the speculative sort.

Accompanying the order was a check intended to be $550, but which was written out so that it could be cashed only for $5.50.

For the purpose of having the error rectified, the recipient went to the home of his customer. Discussion of the merits of the investment followed and when the salesman returned to Marion the order had been increased to $2,700.

BRAVE HUSBANDS

STORIES of the rather distressing errors made by brides just going through their first experiences managing affairs in the kitchen—distressing, at least, for the young husband who must consume the amateurish culinary products with a brave smile—are not all creations of joke-writers' imaginations.

At any rate, a happening in real life reported from the home of pair of newlyweds in Marion recently tends to prove that such things do happen.

The happy bride, it is related, wanted to impress her youthful domestic partner with her ability to brew tea so that he would know it was tea, and used a full pound in mixing up the concoction.

After attempting to force a quantity of the powerful beverage past his bobbing and rebellious Adam's apple, the devoted and heroic young benedict gave it up and timidly gasped out the opinion that something seemed to be wrong.

There were a few tears from the new cook but she agreed that it was a valuable experience and that it was fortunate the consequences hadn't been more serious.

PRESSES BUSY

A NEW record was set in the press room of the J. H. Maish Co., 400 South Main st. recently when the presses rolled 100,000 times between 7:30 in the morning and 12:30 o'clock at night, according to Jack Carr, foreman of the press room. The J. H. Maish Co. is one of two print shops which have a monopoly in the United States on the production of three-color letterheads.

RETURN HOME

THE latest additions to the growing family of Tango and Jerry, the copper-colored Cocker-spaniels of the Wemuth kennels, south of the city, have been returned to their home after being housed several days in temporary quarters in the south window of the Wiant Book store, East Center st.

The seven little pups, sleepy-eyed, fluffy, buff-colored, attracted no little degree of attention for a troupe so young. They "first saw light" on the Wemuth kennels about five weeks ago.

Having an eye for beauty and a keen desire to appear at their best in the eyes of the numerous spectators who stopped to gaze and admire, the pups partially tore down the blue crepe paper which adorned their improvised pen for more fitting adornment for their own plump little bodies.

RELICS OF PAST

QUAINT survivals of an early Marion are the two stone hitching posts which grace the curbing in front of the Dr. R. C. M. Lewis residence, 337 South Main st.

About a yard apart, the two posts, still topped by the iron ring to which the reins were attached, call to mind the days when horses and buggies, to say nothing of watering troughs, literally lined the "streets of Marion."

In spite of their advanced years the two posts still stand with more dignity and pride than their colorful successors—the yellow and black curbstone ornaments bearing the words "No Parking Here."

[illegible] 20 Bibles were entered [illegible] tion. About half of the [illegible] more than 100 years old. [illegible] was entered by [illegible] [illegible] of the church [illegible] purposes.

Bible bearing the name of [illegible] and the date 1720 on the title page cut off and [illegible] Elias Furstenberger, 438 [illegible] entered this 208 year old [illegible].

The Bible is the property of J. B. Furstenberger, of Marion, a cousin of Elias Furstenberger, whose grandfather gave the Bible to John [illegible]. Book is in excellent condition [illegible] on the corners and [illegible] it have aided in its preservation. It is extremely large, being about [illegible] the size of this newspaper page.

Old Family Records

Records of the births, marriages and deaths in the Furstenberger [illegible] 1812.

[illegible] Elias Furstenberger has a [illegible] President James Monroe on April [illegible] 1824 [illegible] acres of [illegible] township [illegible] received the grant [illegible] on the latest sheep[illegible] parchment.

Kenneth Crawford, 318 Cherry st., [illegible] 80-year-old Bible was [illegible] place with another of the same [illegible] age owned by H. W. Knickle [illegible] second place [illegible] Knickle [illegible] Bible's age given to him by the man from whom he received it. [illegible] examination of the book disclosed a title page at the beginning of the New Testament bearing the date 1822. The front title page together with all the pages up to 75 has been [illegible] Knickle had failed to find the New Testament title page.

Owned by Galion Woman

The second place Bible is the property of Mrs. M. J. Markey of Galion, Mrs. Crawford's mother. The Bible was brought to this country from [illegible] Switzerland by Mrs. Elizabeth [illegible], Mrs. Crawford's great-grandmother. Mrs. Elizabeth Balliet next owned the book. She was Mrs. Markey's mother and lived to be 91. The Bible has descended through Mrs. Crawford's family during the 200 years of its existence. It is 10 by 11 [illegible]

[illegible] H. W. Knickle [illegible]

Came from West Virginia

The [illegible] book was brought to Ohio from West Virginia 43 years ago by [illegible] Morris, all the members of whose family [illegible] the Moores [illegible] brought the Bible from England.

Age has [illegible] electrotyped at Edinburgh [illegible] 1802. Several of its pages are missing and the remainder [illegible]. The leather cover of the book [illegible] has been torn away [illegible] on the front and back covers and sewed in place with linen thread.

The record of the births, marriages and deaths in the Morris family had been kept in the book since 1780. The last entry was made exactly 100 years ago.

Many interesting newspapers and clippings were filed in the Bible, most of them being over 50 years old. A New York [illegible] printed details of the [illegible] as an aftermath to the Tilden-Hayes presidential campaign.

An Amendment Herald for Sept. 22, 188[illegible] told the story of the fight of the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union for state and national prohibition. The newspaper's motto was "For God and Home and Native Land."

Advertisers of that day took advantage of the fight for prohibition. An ad in the Amendment sheet told in large type [illegible] and then in smaller type [illegible] tea or coffee.

A Marion [illegible] for Jan. 10, 1884, George Crawford, editor, ran a story under the following headline: "[illegible]—The Deadly [illegible]—How a German Nobleman Met Death—Curious and Unexpected Result of Wearing Tight Shoes and Dissipation." The story told how Baron von Brenning of Germany had died from the amputation of a toe after mortification had set in as a result of cutting a corn. The [illegible] referred to his dissolute manner of life.

CARNES WILL NOT FIGHT EXTRADITION

Reiterates Statement That Blackmailers Were "Bleeding" Him for His Past

"They were [illegible] for me. Friends who knew too much about my past were blackmailing me. They were bleeding me at all times [illegible] only recourse—flight—and I tried it and I admit it."

SEPTEMBER BRINGS DROP IN MERCURY

Cool Weather Ideal for Beginning of School Year, Record Shows

September was an ideal month to start the children to school. There were few warm, balmy days to draw attention from studies, but there were a great many snappy, chilly days when it wasn't at all unpleasant to get into a warm school house, away from homes where the winter coal supply had not been received.

The latter part of the month was much cooler than the first, the mercury dropping as low as 60 degrees on Sept. 25, according to records of Dr. E. H. [illegible], local [illegible] weather observer. Several fur coats were seen on the streets when the mercury began to drop, and the winter coat sale in the stores assumed large proportions.

On Sept. 14 and 15 the thermometer registered 90, causing local citizens to surmise that a warm fall was to start. Their expectations seemed to be fulfilled when the line rose to 93 degrees the following day. [illegible] the next week the mercury skidded down and until it rested at 60.

Then the populace was forced to bring forth blankets, the night frost appeared and it registered 40 degrees.

Singularly, last year in September the high and low degrees of temperature were exactly the same as this year, 93 and 40 degrees. The inches of rainfall varied just a matter of seven hundredths of an inch, registering 2.26 inches this year and 2.09 inches last year.

September, 1928 was almost a week ahead of September, 1927, in the matter of clear days. This year the weather man says we had 18 clear days, five ahead of last year, with only 13 listed

REALTOR PLANNING MODERN STRUCTURES

S. G. Glasener Outlines Details for Two Apartment Buildings

Two frame apartment buildings planned for the northwest corner of George and State sts. by Steward G. Glasener, local realtor, will be among the largest and most up-to-date in the city, according to plans outlined today by the builder. Permits for the construction work were recently issued by the city clerk.

Each of the new flat buildings will contain six apartments. In one building there will be three-room apartments and in the other four room apartments. Construction will be double throughout, double floors, double walls, and double ceilings. This is expected to make them practically sound-proof.

Each apartment will be a unit in itself with electrical refrigeration, a breakfast room, steam heat, and hardwood floors throughout. Heat will be furnished. In the basement each apartment will have its own storeroom and laundry equipment.

Garages will be built in the rear.

Glasener, who has been in the real estate business here for 17 years, considers the present building and business outlook in Marion the best he has seen it in that time.

YOUR CHEAPEST NECESSITY—FIRE INSURANCE

Your fire insurance dollar pays for indemnity—for immunity against financial loss when calamity overtakes you. But that dollar buys so much more than the indemnity it pays for that it ranks as one of the most profitable dollars you spend. Its purchasing power is away above the average

Fire insurance, from the indemnity standpoint alone, is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its cost has consistently declined—even during the period of war inflation—practically every year for the last twenty.

And this in spite of the fact that insurance service—as rendered by the 224 Stock companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has multiplied its activities for the public welfare and greatly enlarged their scope.

Your fire insurance dollar may pay for indemnity only, but for good measure the Stock Fire Insurance companies provide engineering and research services to make life and property safer—laboratories in which to test materials and devices—scientific hazard measurements—building construction codes—arson detection and investigation—organized fire prevention—and many other voluntary measures designed to lower the fire waste and thereby reduce the cost of fire insurance.

All the mechanics of underwriting as conducted by the Stock Fire Insurance companies—which transact more than nine-tenths of the fire insurance business of this country—are in the public interest.

That the public may know how and why this is so, the companies propose to discuss some of the vital insurance questions.

This is the first of the series of messages. Your attention is invited to succeeding chapters, appearing at frequent intervals.

A clearer understanding of what Stock Fire Insurance really means and does—and a greater public use of its facilities—should result in a still further reduction of the fire waste and a consequently greater service to the insuring public.

serious and sarcastic by turns, proceeded to wade into New York's political situation. He characterized Republican state platform adopted Syracuse as "as meaningless a as ever I saw in my life."

Reveals Sarcasm

His speech was full of wise-cracks and sarcasm. The Republican on water power, he said was "almost as good as listening to Moran and Mack." The farm plank he ridiculed.

"Oh," he remarked, "how they do love the farmer in October."

He ridiculed the Republican platform's silence on prohibition.

He mimicked: "We might as well have a consistent record. We have double dealt, we have double crossed, we have hedged and hedged and one more year won't hurt us much. We will take a chance. That is the Republican attitude.

"Now," he concluded, "it is up to the people of this state, * * * and I earnestly hope and pray that the result of the sixth of November will be a vindication of progressive, Democratic policies and a repudiation of Republican, standpat reactionary policies."

At the end he received a tremendous ovation. He will leave for Albany late today.

Lembach, who asserted that, for the modern German youth, kings and queens had become "stage and movie affairs."

The active leader of the new "Kaiser party" is Alfred Hugenberg, noted German publisher, often called the "Northcliffe of Germany." Its backbone consists of Nationalists, Agrarians, the Junkers, Industrialists and Steel Helmets, a fascist organization claiming nearly a million members.

The Steel Helmets recently issued a proclamation in which they said:

"We hate this (republican) form of government because it is not led by the best of the Germans and because the parliamentary system makes responsible leadership impossible. We hate this form of state because it prevents the justified rise of German labor, despite all high sounding promises. We proclaim openly and freely our holy faith that the strong state of our yearning will be illuminated by splendor of the German imperial crown so that, after we have fought and won our freedom, the glorious past will stretch out its hands across the hopelessness of the present towards a glorious future."

"Now I Feel Like Fighting-Cock," Says Boilermaker

Man For 50 Years A Resident of Sandusky, (O.) Pays High Tribute to Konjola.

MR. EDWARD GOCHENOUR

As surely as sunrise follows the sunset, new health, new joy in life follow Konjola, the modern medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola acts quickly, however stubborn the case, as is shown in the happy report made by Mr. Edward Gochenour, boilermaker, 426 Dewey street, Sandusky, Ohio. Rejoicing in his regained health, Mr. Gochenour said:

"I feel like a fighting-cock, thanks to Konjola, the only medicine that did any good for me. For years, stomach and liver troubles made be miserable. I had no appetite, my digestion was very bad and I lost weight and strength so that I could hardly go to work. Headaches and dizzy spells were constant, and I was discouraged in my fruitless search for relief. Friends recommended Konjola and in desperation I started the treatment. After the second bottle I felt greatly improved; the fifth bottle completely restored me. Gone are all my health troubles, and strength and weight are coming back fast. Now my life is worth living and work is a pleasure. Certainly Konjola is the king of the world of medicine."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section.

Konjola is sold in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy and by all the best druggists throughout this section.—Adv.

184 HOSPITALS AND INSTITUTIONS ARE USING FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Old Fashioned Medicine for Colds and Body Building Has Proved Its Value By 73 Years Success

Father John's Medicine is now being used in 184 hospitals and institutions from coast to coast in the United States and Canada.

During its 73 years of success in the treatment of colds, throat troubles and as a body builder, Father's John's Medicine has come to be recognized in a great many hospitals and charitable institutions as having great value. Because it is guaranteed free from alcohol or drugs in any form, doctors recommend it.

Father John's Medicine is a high grade preparation of Cod Liver Oil with other valuable ingredients. It builds new tissue and strength and gives power to resist illness.

Doctors have known the value of cod liver oil for a great many years and have used it freely in their practice. Modern research has determined the reason for its value, and given it the name of vitamins.

It is unquestioned that cod liver oil, when given in palatable form such as Father John's Medicine, is one of the greatest body builders for those who are weakened or run down.

The Dominican Sisters of St. Dominic Monastery, La Crosse, Wisconsin, allow us to quote from a recent letter:

"We have found out that there is nothing better than Father John's Medicine for colds, or building up the body; it does a world of good."

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I want to tell you how much Resinol Soap and Ointment have helped my skin. It was pimply, the pores were enlarged, and, at the same time, it was so dry and sensitive I had to be very careful what I used on it. A friend of mine was sure your soap and ointment would help me, so I bought some and was delighted with the results." (Signed) Helen Shebot

There are few cases of rash, eczema, itching or chafing which will not be relieved by a few applications of Resinol Ointment and a continuous daily use of Resinol Soap. Thousands testify to the QUICKNESS with which Resinol acts. Try it. At all druggists.

Unmatched Case of Piracy

The story of the seizure in the Gulf of Tonking of the British steamship Anking, by forty Chinese pirates who boarded the ship as passengers, the slaying of two of the ship's British officers—the chief officer and the chief engineer—and the Chinese quartermaster the wounding of two other officers the terrorizing of 1 100 aboard the ship and the escape of the pirates in the vessel's boats with $10 000 in loot taken from the passengers is decidedly startling but it can not be held to be altogether surprising It is nothing more than an Oriental manifestation of the same spirit of crime which is so common here in the Occident

It is the history of crime that like disease, it is contagious and like disease it moves in cycles Unlike disease or at least many of our diseases which have their origin in the Orient the crime cycle of the present broke out in the Western world

It is not only possible but very probable that few will see any connection between banditry in this country and piracy in Asiatic waters, but that makes a connection neither impossible nor improbable

Stories of crime can not be featured as they have been very generally by the press of the United States nor can the participants in such crimes be glorified as they have been in many cases without a reflection of such exploitation appearing in the press of other lands And were all stories of crime suppressed by the newspapers of the land American films are going to all lands not only to picture such crimes as we have and incite the viciously inclined to the commission of such crimes as the films portray but also to picture crimes such as are not practiced here that of piracy among them

The newspapers given to sensationalism in the handling of crime stories and the glorification of criminals, the movies in portraying crime the law's delays corrupted officials debauched police forces the sob sisters in excusing it and the so called "good and law abiding" citizens who encourage crime by associating with criminals in business matters which they know are unlawful have combined to encourage crime as it has never before been aided and abetted in all history

It may be urged that piracy has been common for centuries in Asiatic waters but those who urge it will have to go far back in maritime history to find a case where a ship carrying 1 400 passengers has been held up in an established sea line where many vessels are passed and the passengers have been robbed of valuables worth $10,000.

Wright Plane Should Come Back.

[illegible] of Orville Wright [illegible] that it [illegible] Smithsonian Institution [illegible] the death [illegible] its secretary, [illegible] Langley, has [illegible] withheld from his brother Wilbur [illegible] recognition as the inventor of the first heavier than air machine capable of [illegible] a sustained flight under its own power while carrying a man holding out that luck rather than scientific study and experimentation was responsible for their success in perfecting the Kitty Hawk airplane Further than that he has held that the label they placed on the machine violated the truth and that the machine in the institution's museum is not the machine invented by Langley

Before the last change ordered the label read

"Langley flying machine The original Langley flying machine of 1903 restored In the opinion of many competent to judge this machine was the first heavier than air craft in the history of the world capable of sustained free flight under its own power carrying a man"

Orville Wright has maintained from the beginning of the controversy that the Langley machine was not successfully flown in 1903 or at any other time that its design was such that it never could have been successfully flown that the Langley machine as "restored" is not the machine that crashed and was wrecked at the time of its trial and his feeling was such that he sent the Kitty Hawk machine to the British museum in resentment of what he held was the Smithsonian institution's injustice to himself and his deceased brother Wilbur

The label as ordered modified now reads

"The original Samuel Pierpont Langley flying machine of 1903 restored Deposited by the Smithsonian Institution"

It may be seen that the Smithsonian people have backed down decidedly from their original position but it may be that they haven't yet gone sufficiently far to mollify the surviving inventor of the Kitty Hawk plane as the new label holds that it is the Langley machine of 1903 restored when as a matter of fact it is not The Langley plane as contended by Wright never did fly Such was its wing design as it has since been discovered, that it never could have been made to fly After the crash at its trial a failure which undoubtedly hastened the death of Professor Langley the wreckage was put away in the museum Some ten or eleven years later the wreckage was sent we believe to Glenn Curtiss In any event the faulty wing design was corrected to conform to the principle which time had demonstrated to be workable and a number of other changes were made Thus changed the Langley machine was flown in 1914

Secretary Abbott says in his announcement reviewing the controversy that he ordered the change as a "gesture of good will" Possibly so, but those who have followed the controversy will be inclined to believe that the power of public opinion was not wholly immaterial in bringing about the change

Whether the Wright Kitty Hawk plane is brought back from London and placed in the Smithsonian museum depends largely on the caliber of the surviving Wright If he is big enough to overlook the Smithsonian institution's persistence in the claim that the plane now housed in its museum is the Langley plane restored and big enough to forget the manifest injustice done him and the memory of his dead brother it may be We believe that he is big enough to overlook the manifest intention of the Smithsonian secretary to let himself down easy by holding out that his announcement is made as a "gesture of good will"

We sincerely hope such will be the outcome of the controversy for the resting place of the first successful heavier than air machine should be here in the land of its invention As a matter of fact the controversy should never have been permitted to go to such a length as even to threaten its loss to this country

Learn How To Sleep.

BY ROYAL S COPELAND M D

Everything we know we have acquired through our special senses All knowledge comes from seeing hearing smelling tasting and feeling

Each of these special functions depends upon a delicate and finely adjusted mechanism Overuse will damage or destroy it Regular rest and sleep are essential to its normal activity

There can be no refreshing and satisfying sleep except under conditions which exclude all calls upon the senses The brain is not at rest if any one of the special organs is operating

Nothing can be more important than knowing how to sleep The first thing to learn is that sleep can not be satisfactory unless it is taken in a quiet room one which is thoroughly ventilated You know this but perhaps you have not thought about the significance of darkness the most important of the conditions essential to refreshing sleep

No mother would sit up all night using a chicken feather to tickle the bottoms of her child's feet The board of health would cause your arrest for creating a nuisance if you pounded a drum and blew a horn the whole of every night You would consider it an insane act if the janitor of your apartment house were to keep stirring some vile compound raising an unbearable stench through the darkness of the night What would happen to a nurse who spent hours and hours in dropping into a baby's mouth molasses or some other strongly tasting substance?

These absurd performances would serve to excite the senses of feeling hearing smelling and tasting You will agree at once that any one of them would disturb sleep and rest Positive illness might follow having any special sense under constant stimulation If this is true of the other senses why excite continuously the special sense of sight?

Close your eyes gently just as you do in sleep Turn your head about even in the daylight you can locate every window or source of light At night through your closed eyelids you can easily tell exactly where the light is

Even though there is sleep the optic nerve is under constant stimulation if there is a light in the room So long as there is stimulation of the seeing part of the eye there are disturbing impulses going to the brain

Just as you can get used to sleeping on a moving train or in a vile smelling slaughter house you can get used to sleeping in a light place But sleep under such conditions is much less restful and restorative than sleep in a dark room

It is particularly true of nervous and irritable persons that the sleeping quarters should be chosen with reference to darkness and stillness Never have a night lamp and exclude from the room the illumination of an outside street light and the light which shines through a transom Vigor efficiency and length of days are promoted by giving the special senses nothing to do during the hours you spend in sleep

THE EDISON MUSEUM

Throughout the world the American genius is chiefly distinguished for its mechanical ingenuity and inventiveness This particular talent is a legacy from our pioneer tradition Its fruits are quite as marked a characteristic of America's contribution to the arts of peace as poetry is of English music of German and painting and sculpture of Italian accomplishment A museum therefore devoted to the preservation and display of these devices as they have come from the hand of the originator or inventor offers an invaluable record of American civilization in that field of creation most peculiar to itself

And what more appropriate than that Henry Ford the most conspicuous exemplar of the American mechanical genius should establish such a museum? In this labor of love which he has set himself one sees expressed his uncompromising loyalty to his background to the spirit of his countrymen and to his personal predilection both in things and friends Where other great captains of industry have shown a penchant for denuding Europe of its objects of art and housing them in palaces patterned after the architectural gems of the Old world he has stuck to the products of his own land which best embody its temper and talents and brought them together not in a building reflecting a foreign environment but in his "ancient village" designed as a replica of those little communities out of whose life and loins has sprung the America we know

One of the features of this "ancient village" which is situated just north of Dearborn is to be a building known as the Edison museum housing the early working models of all of Edison's inventions his laboratory tools notebooks and other paraphernalia This of course will be a tribute to the friend Mr Ford most admires as well as an intimate exhibit of the life work of America's best known and best beloved wizard As Edison's personality typifies the national spirit and is quite as important a key to an understanding of its bent as the product of his mind and hands such a monument richly deserves its place —New York Herald Tribune

FRESH AIR

Dr Edward Livingston Trudeau died in 1915 we believe He was called the "inventor of fresh air" because at the age of twenty five he discovered that his lungs were in serious condition and went to live in a shed in the Adirondacks Here he lived long enough not only to teach the world more about his own disease than had ever before been known but to demonstrate that he was right as Christy Matthewson later exemplified in his own case

Forty years ago people used to shut the windows of their bedrooms for the winter and stop up the cracks with listing Now they open them wide at least those do who value their health and have read enough to be intelligent

Forty years ago patients with any pulmonary trouble were kept in as hot and close a room as was possible Now the doctor sends them up to the roof or the sun parlor or the sanatorium where enveloped in blankets they get well twice as quickly as aforetime when all too often they did not get well at all Pneumonia patients rarely recover under the old way Now pneumonia is by no means a hopeless affliction

The lesson has been pretty thoroughly learned to change the air frequently and keep it fresh in living and working rooms to let all in at night that can come in

Cool fresh air is not dangerous nor is it uncomfortable to those whose resistance is normal what it should be One should court the cool air from the clear skies This is what Dr Trudeau taught to his patients and thousands more besides —Cincinnati Enquirer

Lithuania

BY TEMPLE MANNING

To most of us the name Lithuania has a nebulous meaning Lithuania nestling in the middle of Europe is one of the many separate states resulting from the World war But far from being a new state it is in reality an old nation Indeed centuries ago it was one of the most powerful countries in northern Europe

During the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries Lithuania or Lietuva as it is sometimes known abroad extended from the Baltic to the Black sea and is important in history for its help in clearing the region of the lower Dnieper of the Mongols A while later Lithuania won an important victory over the Knights of the Teutonic Order

So much for her early history Today, Lithuania is one of the important republics of the Balkan states Although for many years under the yoke of foreign nations the people of this valiant little nation have retained their individuality And having been utterly over-run by the Germans during the World war their homes razed their crops laid waste they have risen surprisingly above their hardships It will not be very long before all scars of the world upheaval are utterly healed —Copyright, 1928 Newspaper Feature Service Inc

"Marginal Men."

BY GARRETT P SERVISS

Sociologists of the University of Chicago led by Professor Robert Park, are [illegible] out a new line in the study of human civilization They think that they have discovered a type of man which is specially representative of the process of changing civilization and those belonging to this type are called "marginal men" The explanation is that the minds of such men constitute the meeting point in which conflicting cultures meet and fuse

Because they are capable of grasping and judging the relative values of two different cultures at the same time it is out of their cogitations that the form of advancing civilization is set

From this we may see that it is not those who keep in the forefront of change that determine what the new culture shall be for they represent only one of the elements out of which it must be developed The man with the marginal mind fusing the old in to the new is the real maker of civilization He breaks the hard shell of pure conservatism and blends whatever it contains of continuing value with the fresh matter offered by the out and out revolution The changing conditions of life bring forth three types—the conservative radical and the marginal man who is the real adjuster of the new to the old Therefore it is in the study of minds of the last named type that the real grounds on which a new culture is to rest may best be discovered

It is reported that two graduate students of the university are seeking for examples of the marginal man whose mentality they would subject to analysis in order to discern therein the true lineaments of the coming time

The outward aspect of civilization has never altered more rapidly than it has been doing within the past decade and it is yet too early to determine into what definite shape it will settle The marginal man whether or not conscious of his function can hardly yet have a good grasp upon the problem of adjustment presented in such a swirl of incoherent elements as the social world offers at present

The man who feels in a dazed sort of way that he has lived beyond the edge of his time or has been pushed over the verge of a precipice could hardly be counted as marginal in the sense described at least not before he recovers his mental equilibrium and becomes able to select cooly what is valuable in the new ways of thinking and acting The definition of the marginal man implies a substantial conservation for he builds on the foundation of things as they were before the new views became active He frees himself from the old ways in order to make a better adjustment to life

Such men can hardly be looked for among the young whose general tendency is to follow and develop whatever has the glamour of novelty Neither should they be sought among the old who naturally prefer what they have known familiarly all their lives They should be found then generally among those in the middle terms of life whose mentality is still adjustable while they have practical knowledge extending in both directions

The marginal man must be the product of a wide education His numbers are multiplying in consequence and becoming a bulwark against violent and excessive social changes — Copyright 1928, International Feature Service Inc

New York Day by Day.

BY O O MINTYRE

New York Oct 2 — New York is often wrongly dubbed the most inhospitable American city The stranger, upon stepping from his train or steamer, is popularly supposed to be taken over the jumps by everybody from the taxi gypper to the Broadway racketeer

The truth is that no other city has such a tax upon its hospitality or responds so gallantly There are exclusive of commuters about 75 000 visitors daily streaming into our midst, expecting to be entertained by friends and acquaintances

The attitude is "Well, here we are" and they expect the cliff dwellers to do their stuff Now in the smallest communities people have engagements as a rule for several days ahead and in cities on account of distances and multiple activities often weeks ahead

Not much of a gad about I have at the moment engagements that require my attention for the next ten days Yet the average visitor will call up from the station to announce he is in town and what form of Old Harry will be raised tonight

It is as a rule the suggestion to attend the reigning theatrical hit seats for which at the outside can not be secured in less than a week and spend the rest of the night in a scamper juice den If the native hems and haws he finds a decided drop in temperature and later hears he has grown terrifically high hat

Despite all this life in New York consists largely in entertaining out of town friends The burden falls heaviest on those who live in tiny apartments and must sleep on the floor or in the kitchen sink to make the visitor comfortable

It takes many years for the New Yorker to tire of entertaining his out of town visitors There is an endless thrill in revealing the wonders of the metropolis New York would not be the same without this feature But the visitor should display the same consideration he expects of the New Yorker who visits him

* * *

The New Yorker who calls up a friend in another city usually receives a hearty "Glad you are here" and a vague intimation that "we must get together" But reverse the situation and the visitor to New York is hurt if he does not receive a spot invitation to don the war paint that very evening

* * *

An example of quick thinking was displayed by a banquet speaker the other evening In the midst of his talk an excited guest saw a mouse and could not refrain from pointing and shouting "There goes a mouse!" When the assemblage looked the mouse was gone "Please pardon the condition of my esteemed friend" said the speaker quickly and went on with his speech Trigger stuff!

JULY DEATH TOLL TOTALS 70 PER DAY

1928 Figures Will Exceed Last Year's Number by 2,000

New York, Oct 2—America's automobile casualty list is growing—alarmingly.

Seventy deaths a day was the country's toll for July, it was estimated at the National Safety Congress today where more than 500 delegates from all over the country are in attendance. In the first seven months of this year the total deaths in automobile accidents were 14,800 as compared with 12,800 the first seven months of last year.

And indications are that this year's total of automobile deaths will exceed that of last year by 2,000.

Illustrating the enormity of the problem with which the convention is grappling, R. L. Forney, of Chicago, head of the statistical bureau of the National Safety Council, told International News Service that accidents of all kinds last year caused death to 95,000 and injury to 10,000,000 more.

Will Not Be Educated

Of the 95,000 killed last year, 25,77[illegible] were automobile deaths, said Forney.

Automobile drivers seemingly will not be educated into safety first methods although excellent progress is made along other lines in accident prevention.

Accidents in industry have been cut down year after year, yet despite this headway there were 25,000 deaths caused by industrial accidents last year and another 3,000,000 were injured. It is estimated that 296,000,000 days were lost through accidents, that the loss in wages totaled $827,000,000 and that another $187,000,000 was spent for medical fees.

Causes Listed

An idea of what the automobile driver is usually doing when an accident occurs can be obtained from the following "action of driver at time of accident" chart compiled by the safety organization:

Action of Driver	Number of Accidents

Following announcement yesterday that J. J. Munsell of Columbus had taken over the Frigidaire agency held here by V. C. Smith, it was learned today that the exchange was one of the transactions in an assignment made in probate court by Smith.

All of Smith's personal property which included only stock in his electrical appliance store here, has been transferred to Howard F. Guthery as assignee. Making Children 'Want' To Do Right is Best Method, Marion Audience is Told

Basis of Success in Training Young Folk Outlined by Cleveland Newspaper Woman Addressing P. T. A and University Women

"We don't use enough imagination in dealing with children" was one of the interesting statements made by Florence LaGanke of Cleveland in her address "When Boys and Girls Are Growing Up" last night at a combined meeting of the Marion Parent Teacher council and University Women's club in the auditorium of the City library.

Miss LaGanke, feature writer for the home economics department of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, is known in Parent Teacher groups throughout the state for her interesting discussions on child psychology and home life.

Theme of Address

The address last night dealt with parents and teachers in their relationship to the growing child.

"The successful parent and the successful teacher are the ones who have the knack of making children want to do the right thing," Miss LaGanke said. "We make our big mistake when we insist upon obedience, when we expect children to do what is right because mother knows best. Parent and teachers must lay down laws—but in the right way. We must learn to use imagination and humor in dealing with children and not to set our moral standards so high it makes it impossible for children to be honest and comply with our demands."

Source of Happiness

It takes sympathy and understanding to build a home and happy individuals in the family in which both father and mother qualify for the position, Miss LaGanke stated.

In closing Miss LaGanke said "The fundamental things that count are mothers that understand—mothers who have retained their individuality, who have reared their children patiently and kindly and without the insistence of an overlord, mothers who aren't always telling [illegible] troubles that often never happen."

New Dresses for The School Girl
By MAE MARTIN

Thousands of mothers with daughters of high school or college age have problems like this. Little Rock Arkansas mother. She says:

I don't believe I could have put my daughter through the last two years of high school and college without the help of Diamond Dyes. Dresses long out of style and faded were made [illegible] with a package or so of Diamond Dyes and the addition of a few dozen buttons and a little braid. Sometimes two dresses were combined and brought up to date in lines that gave no hint of their past. People never knew they were redyed when I used Diamond Dyes. They never take the life out of cloth or make it limp. They always make things fresh, crisp and bright.

Diamond Dyes are true dyes, like those used when the cloth was made. Tinting with them is easy as bluing, and dyeing only takes a little more time. Insist on Diamond Dyes and avoid disappointment. They never streak, spot or run.

My handsome new book Color Craft will help you with your clothes and home furnishing problems. 64 pages of dollar saving suggestions, fully illustrated in colors. It's FREE. Simply write Mae Martin, Home Service Dept., Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont —Adv

MISS COLLETTE FRANCIS

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Collette Francis of [illegible] East 25th St, Brooklyn now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit Rio Rita.

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well groomed girl.—Adv

On the hottest days you can be happy in the knowledge that your hair is in keeping with your dainty summer toilette.

15c CAN OF LYE SAVES $15 PLUMBER BILL

Melts Grease, Rust and Muck Like Snow From a Hot Stove

AVOIDS TORN-UP FLOORS —KEEPS PIPES WIDE OPEN—DRAIN WATER RUSHES OUT

If you like plumbers' bills, the surest way to get them is to ignore the warning of a slow flowing drain pipe. Like a cold, the time to remedy it is the first moment you notice it. A 15c can of Red Seal Lye saves many a $15 plumber bill.

For Red Seal Lye is 97% pure, the finest, quickest, most economical made. It melts grease, muck, matted hair, vegetable matter and rust like water melts sugar—and as quickly.

If drains are badly clogged use half a can in boiling water. But the simplest way is to take two minutes a week to shake a few tablespoonfuls down the drain while running the hot water. Then your drain pipes never become clogged. The water rushes out. Keep one can upstairs in the bath room and one down in the kitchen. That saves needless steps.

And now (while you are thinking about it) just write down "2 cans Red Seal Lye" on your grocer list—and start this wise plan at once. Make it a habit once a week—like winding the clock. Save this article as a reminder.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

Milk of Magnesia has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

DRAMATIC STORY OF AMAZING ADVENTURE

BY WILLIAM ALMON WOLFF

CHAPTER TWENTY

[illegible] week [illegible] saw [illegible] suggestion [illegible] the doors [illegible] refused [illegible]

[illegible] my dear fellow [illegible] That's all [illegible]

[illegible] to her each [illegible] given terms [illegible] hotel [illegible] gladly [illegible] would be none [illegible] to discover [illegible] the right scheme to be followed [illegible] while [illegible] Mr. R[illegible] I shall study your [illegible] You are [illegible] charmingly masculine [illegible] I will create for you.

[illegible] so [illegible] Jim was [illegible] Hotel in New York [illegible]

Irene had said [illegible] He's all right! His [illegible] perfectly harmless. I suppose [illegible] to live to [illegible] to make [illegible] to [illegible]

"Yes—I think you're safe enough on that score," Jim said a little grimly.

He [illegible] to say too [illegible] He [illegible] the [illegible] to read the [illegible] and to see the plays that they put on in the little out of the way theaters. And [illegible] to a museum or an art gallery. I don't see you or Ralph taking me to a [illegible]

"Well, I suppose he's all right if you like [illegible]," said Jim. "I don't care—as long as he doesn't get under my [illegible]. I'll have to study my personality [illegible] or on the jump, though, I'm afraid. I'm going to be pretty [illegible] I'm praying for an open winter on Long Island. Got a lot of work to do before spring."

"Spring? Winter? It's hardly summer yet!" said Irene. "You're not going to work right away, are you?"

"Watch me if you don't think so!" [illegible] Jim.

And he was as good as his word. Until the details of the [illegible] were completed he could do nothing [illegible]. But after they were done he wasted no time at all. It was [illegible] easy as it turned out to [illegible] working capital.

The value of his [illegible] was well known; the mortgage on [illegible] a clear title [illegible] mortgage he [illegible] upon it was [illegible] to the banks that the corporation had given [illegible] to arrange for the [illegible] of several acreage upon partial repayments of the [illegible] the mortgage secured. [illegible] he could be [illegible] if needed.

In the first rush of work, the first [illegible] days of eager planning and arrangement, Jim had no time to worry. Every waking [illegible] was filled. He [illegible] only for [illegible] there was so much for him to do. And when night came he was spent and tired; he was so exhausted [illegible] that he was asleep the moment his head touched his pillow. Yet all the time, lurking in his subconscious mind, was the realization that he was like a man treading a floor the boards of which have been partly cut through, so that [illegible] any moment he may be precipitated to the unknown depths below.

Gradually, though, there came [illegible] a realization of something he had to do, seemingly unimportant, that really was vital. He had to establish himself. He had been living ever since the night he met Irene Dalmar in Chicago in a world of dreams, of unrealities. He had passed from one layer of fantasy to another. All the time he had felt as one does in a dream when one realizes that it is a dream and that soon one must wake up.

And that, if it continued, would be fatal. He had to get a grip on reality. He had to feel that what he was doing was real, that it had meaning and significance. He had to come to feel that there was a chance, at least, for him to succeed in this mad and amazing enterprise to which now, at last, more or less in spite of himself, he stood committed. Otherwise—well, the answer was easy to find!

There was nothing unreal or fantastic about Blake. He was no ogre of a dream, to be feared only until sleep was banished. He was as real as life and death, and as dangerous. He was sheer hate and malice incarnate. And it was certain that he was not going to accept his defeat; that he would be an active and deadly enemy, who would leave no stone unturned to ruin the man he hated and feared.

One of Jim's first tasks, as he saw it, was to look into the menace Blake represented to his plans and hopes. To examine the situation as it actually was and discover just what Blake might be in a position to do to defeat, discredit, ruin him.

One obvious peril there was. If Blake learned that Sheagren and [illegible] were administering the will he would go to them at once for information—and he would get it. Judge Sheagren had been explicit on that point. He would countenance no deception. The utmost he had been willing, and that rather reluctantly, to promise had been that he would not voluntarily offer information to those who believed him to be the heir to millions.

It surprised Jim agreeably to find that the superficial facts were so [illegible] and generally known. The publicity he himself had received was, as might be, he knew, extremely dangerous. But with Trowbridge's help he gathered all the clippings and went through them. And he saw that there were curious blanks in those stories. All the interest had been in him. They referred to Jim simply as the heir to a fortune; not one paper mentioned its source. His uncle's name did not appear at all.

Then he looked up the clippings covering his uncle's death. There were few, and those were brief and terse. Plainly there had been no suspicion of how rich a man his uncle had become. The death of a none too prominent or well known maker of paper boxes in a small New England town had not seemed worthy of long obituary notices; the most he could find was a brief item. Even the local paper had given no hint of his uncle's wealth. Had it been suspected that his uncle had had more than his business to leave, it would of course have been a different story.

So far, then, so good. It seemed to Jim that for Ralph Blake to try to find out the facts about him and his inheritance ought to be pretty difficult. He wouldn't know how to make a start. His problem was like that of a man looking for the proverbial needle in the equally proverbial haystack. Except that Ralph Blake would not know even in which of a number of possible haystacks the needle was to be found.

He was going over these things in his mind in his own apartment one morning, when a delayed appointment gave him a chance to linger for once over the tempting breakfast Moto had prepared. The more he thought of it the harder it was for him to see in what way Blake might be dangerous. Of Blake's malice he had no doubt. But it was difficult to see what he could do. He was disposed to dismiss

CAN you imagine sitting down in a ringside seat and seeing the actual action rounds of the outstanding ring battles of the past six years?

No, this is not a dream. It will be a reality for Marion theater goers on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week when the motion picture "Kings of the Ring" is shown at the Grand.

In answer to a hurried telephone call yesterday afternoon the writer joined several local fight fans in a preview of what critics claim to be the greatest classic of the ring.

On the screen flickered a quick panorama of boxing's great notables: Tunney, Harry Greb, Dempsey, Kilbane, Firpo, Criqui, Sharkey, Villa, Wills, Maloney, Leonard, Tendler and many others—in all their wildness and glory.

Just in front of you is brought the ring's greatest battle—Jack Dempsey vs. Louis Firpo. What fight fan doesn't remember this great scrap? York with the story of the Wild Bull of the Pampas. [illegible] to the floor [illegible] and [illegible] Maloney [illegible] mighty [illegible] the ring [illegible] thought [illegible] the fury [illegible] year.

The Dempsey-Sharkey episode is but one of many. The picture [illegible] Tunney-Heeney [illegible]. It [illegible] to Sharkey and Maloney. The great Pancho Villa and Jimmy Wilde [illegible] in their greatest moments.

Some enterprising fan yesterday figured up the cost of attending the battles shown in the picture, amounting to more than a thousand dollars.

It is an outstanding résumé of sports' most sensational ring engagements. "Kings of the Ring" has been booked as a feature attraction at the local theater.

PICK THE WINNER, IF POSSIBLE

THE St. Louis Cardinals or the New York Yankees?

After one of the most thrilling finishes known in the history of organized ball the two teams are now preparing for the opening of the world series in New York Thursday. Again the question arises: Which team will win?

Fans have little to base their answers on as the Cards and Yanks are very evenly matched. Seldom has a world series been played in which the contestants rank so evenly the same on the offense and defense.

Reports from New York show that the Cardinals hold a slight edge in the betting, but the odds are not great enough to cause any great excitement.

It looks as though the fans are in for a great series.

PROFESSIONAL OR AMATEUR SPORTS?

THE fall season of sports is at hand. Sunday found the curtain going down on the local baseball season while football at Harding got under way Saturday.

Although it is still too early to make any comparisons the writer is wondering if fans in the smaller cities are not turning professional to amateur sport.

It is understood that baseball in Marion this summer went in the hole several hundred dollars. Sunday's game, ballyhooed as one of the best [illegible] of the season, attracted a gate of around $100. The season saw but two real good crowds—1,800 at the Homestead Grays' fray while 1,200 fans witnessed the Florida Cuban Giants play here.

Saturday's contest between Galion and Harding was witnessed by nearly 1,700 fans. Galion is never considered a great drawing card.

Last winter in basketball amateur games were well patronized while most of the professional teams lost money or made but little.

RUNNERS DESTROYED WHEN STABLE BURNS

Reigh Count Saved by Stable Boy; Loss To Be Thousands

Chicago, Oct. 2—Race horses valued in the hundreds of thousands of dollars were dead today as the result of a fire which last night destroyed the stables of John D. Hertz located on Leona farms near Cary, Ill., 38 miles northwest of Chicago.

Mr. Hertz is president of the Yellow Cab Co., at present involved in a local taxicab "war" with a rival company. Two Yellow Cab garages were mysteriously bombed Sunday night.

The disastrous stables fire, according to Mr. Hertz, was started by someone who smashed a steel gate in an outside fence.

Reigh Count, Kentucky Derby winner and rated as the three-year champion of the American turf, was heroically saved by a stable boy. Reigh Count's stable mate, Anita Peabody, winner of the Belmont futurity of 1927, was also saved.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

AT PHILADELPHIA—Tommy Loughran, world's light heavyweight champion, won decision over Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., heavyweight (10).

GREAT QUARTET OF NEW YORK SLUGGERS EVENS UP STRENGTH

Yankees Have Average of .295 Compared with .282 for Saints

Editor's note—This is the second of a series of articles by Davis J. Walsh comparing the respective merits of the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals who will meet in the 1928 world series, starting on Thursday.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—If the current array of New York Yankees finishes a distant second to the St. Louis Cardinals from the important angle of defense—and no one figures to get out a petition against that idea—the Yanks must be conceded the pull in considering the even more important matter of attack. They clearly are entitled to the break in this respect even though their superiority be arrived at through the somewhat fallible system of league to league comparisons. This can be put to more equitable effect in the present instance because pitching in the National and American leagues this year has achieved a reasonable parallel.

Therefore if one club hits for a team average of .297 in the American league and the other for .282 in the National, the assumption is that it is prone to hit the baseball more frequently, also more forcibly, considering the fact that its extra bases total 820 to 761 for the Cardinals. In line with this general data on attack, it may be mentioned that the Yanks scored 87 more runs and have made 1[illegible] more hits than the Cardinals, so much for generalization.

Shock Hitters Important

Becoming specific, we turn to the shock hitters of the two outfits: Ruth, Gehrig, Meusel and Lazzeri, of the Yanks and Hafey, Bottomley, Harper and Frisch of the Cardinals. They are the men who will drive in the runs or else there is a vague likelihood that there will be none.

The important factor here is what kind of an average these quartets may strike in a concerted way. Individuals, for instance, can and do go wrong in the big series. It is far less likely that four men will fall at one and the same time.

The figures I will quote have been culled from a full season's play and therefore give the Yanks none the worst of the breaks since they couldn't hit a horse with a whip during August and early September. However, this isn't early September. Their hitting has been on the ascendant during recent weeks and should be almost normal for the series.

Yank Quartet Leads

Therefore judged purely as one set of hitters against another, the Ruth-Gehrig-Lazzeri-Meusel combination might seem to have more than a little on Bottomley, Hafey, Harper and Frisch. This quartet averaged .31[illegible] against National league pitching; the rival four hit their kind of pitching for .311. Even a difference in pitching that might be construed as markedly in favor of American league hitters wouldn't account for the above discrepancy. The dynamiters of the Yankee attack unquestionably have an edge here over those of the Cardinals.

That they lead in distance hitting too can't be denied. There is no Ruth or even a half Ruth in the Cardinal batting order. Jim Bottomley hit 31 home runs to Ruth's 54 over the regular season but the comparison isn't even as close as that.

On the basis of quartet against quartet the Yanks also lead in homers with 102 to 57, in doubles by 140 to 127 and in triples only by one, 38 to 37.

Card Attack Diversified

The Cardinals' attack is more diversified with Frisch batting in third position. Always a dangerous hitter, he can drag a bunt nicely and is by long odds the best base runner on the lot. However base stealing, merely as such, is seldom more than a negligible factor in world series results unless the opposing battery happens to be very rancid.

Still there may be two factors operating against Frisch's bunting and base running. He will run nowhere if he doesn't get on and the records indicate that he isn't doing this with the frequency of better days. As for his drag bunt, that will be out in those games in which he is forced to bat right handed against Zachary and Heimach.

Other Players Better

Having matched first basemen, second basemen, left fielders and right fielders as potential hitters in the Gehrig-Bottomley, Lazzeri-Frisch, Meusel-Hafey and Ruth-Harper analogies—to the general detriment of the Cardinal entries—the comparison can be carried right down the line without affecting the situation greatly. Koenig, for instance, is a far better hitter than Maranville. Robertson and Dugan and High and Holm are about a stand off; so are Wilson and Bengough who figure to do most of the catching. Likewise Douthit and Paschal, rival centerfielders when Sherdel and Mitchell work.

However, a St. Louis right hander would bring on Durst and the Yankee comparison suffers accordingly.

St. Louis Has Pitching

It all evens up when you consider that the Cards have the pitching and the Yankees haven't. Even the weakest of hitting can be made to look good by the opposing defense which is largely represented by opposing pitching. It will take first class pitching to cramp the Cardinals' style and with Pennock unavailable, the Yanks figure to have all too little of this.

Viewed from the other side of the fence it seems to me, too, that I have a vague recollection of the Yanks having been kept within somewhat reasonable bounds by Alexander, Sherdel and Haines two years ago.

PRINCETON, N. J., OCT. 2—Princeton, the first big eastern college to adopt the huddle system four years ago, has returned to the old and snappier method of calling signals. The delay caused by the huddle allows the defense to shift its men and block many plays according to Coach Bill Roper.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., OCT. 2—[illegible], star end, has recovered from an eye injury and is expected to rejoin the Navy squad today when the middies resume training for the Boston college game.

WILL RESUME BABY SERIES WEDNESDAY

Rochester Strengthened by Return of Morrow and Layne

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2—The outfield at Washington park will be much smaller for the little world's series games which will be resumed here tomorrow between Rochester and Indianapolis. More bleacher seats have been erected and a crowd of 17,000 is now in prospect.

Today both teams loosened up a bit after their day of rest. All men that started the series are in good shape. Rochester probably has been strengthened by the return of Bob Morrow, one of the best catchers in the International league, and also by the recovery of Harry Layne who was out of the first game and was a little bit off tune in the second game.

COLUMBUS GRIDDERS HOLD 1927 CENTRAL OHIO CHAMPIONSHIP

Lineup of Marion A. C.'s Practically selected, Game Starts at 2:30

THE opening football game of the 1928 season will get under way Sunday afternoon at the [illegible] when the Marion A. C.'s meet the Jaeger Mixers of Columbus. The contest will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The Marion team has been practicing for the past two weeks and the lineup for the initial contest has been practically selected by the captain.

Jaeger Mixers last year won the championship of central Ohio and are making a strong bid for the honors this season. They have won two games played so far this year.

When the whistle starts the contest Sunday Marion will see its first professional football in several years. Last season no pro football was played here and promoters of this year's team are attempting to revive interest in the sport.

Backfield positions Sunday will probably be held down by Anthony at full, Shatto and Lashey at the halves while McCombs is slated to call the signals. Shatto and Anthony were former [illegible] Dukes stars. Lashey is a former Harding star while McCombs captained the Red and Black in 1923.

Elmer Smith and Kochensperger at the guards for the locals with Parcher playing center. Tschantz and Whitcomb are slated to start at tackle and Irwin and Wagner at end.

New jerseys and socks have been bought for the team.

New York Oct [illegible]—[illegible] gain [illegible] rally [illegible] stocks today Bullish [illegible] demonstration [illegible] marking up prices of their favorite stocks a few points and giving an appearance of strength in the market leaders but such efforts were wasted as far as their effect upon the outside public was concerned and the heavy outpouring of professional selling and profit taking swept prices backward

Call money loaned at [illegible] per cent in the forenoon but the pinch of the October settlements [illegible] means disappear [illegible] hurried calls were sent in and the rate went to 9 per cent shortly after the noon hour Prior to that time however there had been a steady stream of selling orders to market the professionals for the most part taking the short side and selling materially to their past commitments in General Motors Steel common American Can and other speculative leaders The volume of trading in this period was practically the same as in the first three hours yesterday but the downward price trend was a little more pronounced

There was little if any important change in the business outlook though bankers in convention continued a most expectation great industrial expansion this fall Summer business in some lines has been so great as to [illegible] the prospect of continued expansion in the final quarter of the year The motor car manufacturers continued to emphasize the broad expansion of the home and foreign markets for their wares and the consequent expectations of improving earnings in the final months of the year

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

Chicago Oct [illegible]—Wheat ran into a [illegible] buying [illegible] around the [illegible] figures and a slight recovery [illegible] of prices yesterday However losses for the day were 1@1¼c

Corn was practically unchanged from previous resting spots and oats finished [illegible] lower and rye [illegible] lower Lard ruled [illegible] ribs [illegible] and [illegible]

Wheat Irregular

Wheat started lower [illegible] later ground [illegible] in the [illegible] hour [illegible] prices down to [illegible] for the day

Northwest selling together with bearish news [illegible] gave the market its initial weakness

[illegible] futures [illegible] 13 [illegible] were [illegible] 1⅞ 1¾ [illegible] Australia and [illegible] October [illegible]

[illegible] with [illegible] short covering

A little profit taking was noted on the bulge and [illegible] pressure developed [illegible] visible supply increase of [illegible] for the week was [illegible] The total now is 110,017,000 bu compared with 78,38[illegible],000 bu last year Generally [illegible] rather [illegible] over [illegible] northwest and fair and warm weather was noted in the Canadian provinces

—Blabon Floors
Now is the time when many women are making their homes brighter and more cheerful—in readiness for the short, dark days of late Fall and Winter.
If you have one or more rooms to which you would like to give added beauty and colorfulness, an effective way to start is to let us cover each with a permanent floor of
BLABON'S Linoleum
Of special importance, during cold weather, is the fact that a Blabon floor is warmer in winter yet cooler in summer. This is because of the fact that large quantities of cork—which is an insulator—are used in making Blabon's Linoleum.
You'll find, too, that a Blabon floor is truly economical because it will wear for years and takes so little time and effort to keep it looking glisteningly new—a few swishes of a damp cloth or mop and the floor-cleaning job is done—because it is

FAIR MANAGER SEES BIG FUTURE IN RADIO

Estimates 2,500,000 Receiving Sets To Be Made During 1928-29

Contemplation of the radio market in the United States based on present day knowledge of the field presents a picture that is truly an inspiration to any man in the radio business.

This is the opinion of G. Clayton Irwin, Jr., general manager of the fifth radio world's fair, held first [illegible]

An estimate of 2,500,000 sets for 1928-29 is made by Mr. Irwin who points out at the same time, that a logical goal to shoot at is one set for each of the 28,000,000 homes in the United States.

8,500,000 Sets With Speakers

At the present time there are 8,500,000 sets in the country which operate with loud speaker volume," Mr. Irwin states, "and of this number 25 per cent or 2,100,000 are out of date, admittedly insufficient or totally inadequate. Moreover there are between three and four million sets in addition to the 8,000,000 with loud speaker volume which are listed among the 'one lungers,' crystal sets, etc. These 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 pieces of radio apparatus are ripe for replacement.

The 2,100,000 [illegible] sets which operate a loud speaker but feebly [illegible] station can be tuned in, added to the 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 entirely obsolete sets gives a replacement total of between 5,100,000 to 6,400,000 sets. To be ultra conservative, let's call it 5,500,000.

On top of this vast replacement market is a much larger one in homes which have never possessed radio sets. Such prospects reach the staggering total of 16,000,000 to 17,000,000 depending on whether the 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 estimate of absolutely obsolete sets is used.

Virgin Radio Territory

In addition it is well to remember that there is another virgin field for radio sets which adds 1,000,000 more prospects each year. This is represented by the yearly increase in the number of homes in this country.

Without considering foreign demand it is apparent that there are more than 22,000,000 prospects for radio sets at this minute and on the basis of these figures an estimate of 2,500,000 sets for the year does not seem out of line.

SWISS RETARDED

Wide Voltage Range Is Problem—Standardization Sought

Development of radio in Switzerland has been slow compared with surrounding countries in Europe, Kenneth M. [illegible], United States trade commissioner, informs the United States department of commerce.

There are only five broadcasting stations in Switzerland and 62,000 licensed sets, more than half of which are crystal sets. Various house currents are used in different parts of the country. In the canton of Berne, [illegible] Hill save 110 volt, 125 volt and 220 volt current is [illegible].

There is a movement on foot to standardize at 220 volts and for this reason the Swiss are reported loath to buy an expensive set when there is a possibility of a change of voltage in time.

Broadcasting Orchestra and Vaudeville Entertainers on Three-Night Program

The Princess Pat Royal Canadian orchestra from the Princess Pat Night club of Buffalo will be the headliner of the special program of entertainment for Marion's first radio show to be held in The Marion Star auditorium Oct. 3, 4 and 5.

While many Marion persons have probably tuned in on the orchestra this will be the first opportunity they will have had to hear the original notes from the instruments of the musicians. The orchestra of seven pieces will be here for the entire three nights of the show.

Beside the orchestra there will be two other special radio acts. Margerie Elder, a well known blues singer will present a program of romantic numbers. The other will be Harry Smith, singer of ballads and popular numbers.

The entertainers will present three programs each night.

Talent for the entertainment has been obtained through station WAIU of Columbus by Henry Ackerman of the Ackerman Piano Co., one of the exhibitors at the show and a member of the Marion Radio Trade association which is sponsoring the show.

Marion Has Approximately 2,400 Radios, Estimate Based on Survey Shows

Federal Inquiry Reports Radio Sets in 40 Per Cent of Ohio Homes, Local Dealers Relate Interesting Details About Development Here

There are approximately 2,400 radio sets in the city of Marion, according to estimates based on a recent survey of federal radio commission which shows that about 40 per cent of the homes in Ohio are provided with radio sets. Marion, it is estimated, has about 6,000 homes.

Interesting data regarding the history of radio development locally has been obtained by The Star from several local dealers, most of the information coming from Raymond Irvin of the Lawrence Auto Supply Co., which maintains a radio agency as one of its principal departments.

The investigation indicates that the United Electric Co. is the city's oldest radio firm and that the Lawrence Auto Supply Co. comes second.

Local Transmitters

The information also shows that eight transmitting stations have been located here and that Chester [illegible], [illegible] Baker st. was the first to install a transmitter here. His first station was on the Prospect pl[illegible]

Think of getting stations 200 miles away with a crystal set! Yet that was possible when radio was in its infancy, and the air was not crowded as it is today, according to Irvin. Twenty-five miles is a good distance for a crystal today, he says.

Here are some highlights in the information coming from Irvin. In 1901 Marconi succeeded in transmitting the letter "S" across the Atlantic. This feat was accomplished with a crystal set of the crudest sort.

First Tube Sets

The latter part of a decade passed before radio engineers developed the vacuum tube. The first tube sets were formidable affairs. The panels bristled with honeycomb coils that plugged in, at least a half dozen dials and usually three or four current controls. Their receiving radius was about 500 miles although close to 1,000 miles might be covered under ideal conditions.

Marion radio fans were active in these early days Irvin says. A radio club which met in the Y. M. C. A. compared notes and related adventures on the air. Then there was the Radio Amateurs club which was succeeded by the Radio Listeners' club.

The fans were more enthusiastic and given to organization then than now, according to Irvin, who says that the club enterprises are now matters of history and exist only as memories.

NEW FEATURE

Finest of Programs Broadcast During "Dream Ship" Hour

WGN Chicago has inaugurated a new late evening feature called "The Dream Ship"—a gilded galleon of ancient days, loaded not with precious ore from the mines of Peru, but with soothing melodies designed for the late evening and "that tired feeling."

Instead of the raucous tones of sizzling syncopation the radio listener can see the evening out with the finest of melodies. Gaston du Moulin, director of the WGN concert orchestra and Henry Selinger, program director are culling the music libraries in search of the finest of the soft, melodic classics that will make late evening listening a pleasure.

ASKS FOR FRANCS

Lille, France, Sept. 25—"If you like the concert and think it's worth it, send us a franc (4 cents)," is the message of the station now one of the [illegible] in France. The [illegible] do not think it fitting that announcements of articles of food, clothing, etc. should be sandwiched in between masterpieces of the world's music, and to avoid an appeal for advertising revenue they prefer to go straight to the listener.

CALL SIGNALS ASSIGNED

Call signal KJQ has been assigned for temporary use to the Hammon Engineering Company which is conducting an engineering expedition in South America. Call signal WODO has been assigned to the Export Steamship Company for communicating general orders to its vessels.

GRANT'S LIFE

Personal facts in the life of Gen. U. S. Grant will be given radio listeners from WMAQ, Chicago, at 7 p. m. Wednesday.

LICENSES EXTENDED

Radio Commission Withholds Decision on Many Stations

Washington, Sept. 25—The radio commission has extended until October 1 the licenses of all broadcasting stations except those which are operating on probation.

The order does not affect the status of those stations which were cited by the commission to show cause why they should not be eliminated in the public interest. Decision in many of the cases still is pending.

The extension order was regarded as indicating that the reallocation plan to be adopted by the commission will not be put into effect before October 1.

RADIO RACE CONTROL

Brest, Sept. 25—Thirteen automobiles raced round Brittany in a radio race. Each carried a radio receiving set on which they received first a motto which they had to write down, and then directions for getting to the next stopping place. Arriving there, the process began again, and after a short stop and a moment's silence while the drivers listened in to a central transmitting station, they were off again for the next leg.

L. A. GETS IT

The first television drama radiocast by WGY, Schenectady, and its associated short wave stations was received in Los Angeles. A letter from Kenneth Ormiston says "Results only fair due to fading of 22-meter wave. Voices very strong with occasional glimpses of faces."

USE ESPERANTO

All European Stations Urged to Adopt Language

Lausanne, Switzerland, Sept. 27—A recommendation that transmitting stations broadcast communications in the Esperanto language within the limits of their possibilities was a feature of a meeting here of the International Broadcasting Union.

A survey showed that 168 stations in Europe, Asia and the United States send out messages in Esperanto, it was reported by the secretary. The station at Geneva makes weekly broadcasts in this language.

Various commissions pursued their study of the organization of relays for a wider exchange of radiophonic programs. It was decided to arrange relays between Germany, Austria, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia. Announcement was made that considerable technical progress has been achieved in relaying musical programs by employing submarine cables between Great Britain, Belgium and Germany.

GOOD FOR DISTANCE

Reports to WLW, which also operates short wave station 8XAL, indicate that August was a good month for distance reception. Recently one day's mail included letters from England, Germany and Australia advising that the writers had heard the station's programs on the short wave band.

TELEVISION RECEPTION

Television reception depends largely upon keeping the speed of the receiving motor in synchronization with that of the transmitter. For this purpose Clarostat announces a power rheostat which also contains a short circuiting switch. It has a resistance range of from 25 to 500 ohms.

SUMMARY OF IMPROVEMENTS REVEALED IN NEW RECEIVERS

ELECTRICAL receivers are, in the majority of cases, designed to handle current fluctuations which in some of the models of last year burned out tubes and grid resistances prematurely. The circuits also tune more sharply. The superheterodyne is among the electrified sets this season.

The electro-dynamic loud speaker is comparatively new but seems destined this season to replace many of the older types of reproducers because of its tonal quality and tremendous volume, which can be regulated down to a whisper.

Radio is more closely allied with furniture. There are many attractive cabinets representing period furniture styles. The receivers are more decorative and in several cases brilliant hues are utilized to add a touch of beauty.

The console type of radio set is winning popularity at the expense of the table models. The radio-phonograph combinations are also gaining in favor because of mechanical and electrical improvements.

Automatic tuning appears this season. Nine tiny levers supplementing the standard drum tuning control enable listeners to tune in their favorite stations by merely pressing a lever.

Metal chassis are the vogue with tubes, coils, transformers and wiring concealed and protected by metal shields and compartments. This improves tuning, makes the set foolproof and less susceptible to damage in shipment.

Most of the new cabinets contain the complete equipment, so that only plugging into the light socket is necessary for operation after the antenna and ground are attached. Several sets have a loop antenna in the cabinet, so that the only attachment is to the light socket.

LATEST MODEL EQUIPMENT TO BE ON DISPLAY

15 Local Dealers Will Be Represented in List of Exhibits

What engineers in practically every radio factory in the United States are planning to provide for your entertainment for the approaching winter nights will be displayed for the approval of Marion radio fans at The Marion Star auditorium on Oct. 3, 4 and 5.

The display made by 15 radio dealers in the city will constitute Marion's first radio show. Each dealer will have a booth in which his product will be displayed.

Fifteen booths will line the sides of the auditorium. The booths are designed and hand-painted after a modernistic pattern by Fred [illegible] of the Perry Bland Co. A lighting arrangement using colored bulbs will be employed to set off the unique style of the booths.

Open Areas

The center of the auditorium and the end next to the stage will be open.

As a means of advertising the show all dealers have placed banners over their store entrances. Banners have been thrown across the streets in several places in the downtown section.

Besides the display of radios there will be two exhibits of electric refrigerators. J. L. Rice will have a display of General Electric refrigerators and the C. D. & M. will have Kelvinators on display.

Elaborate Displays

Among the radios displayed at the show will be the most elaborate sets ever shown in Marion. Practically all dealers are ordering special sets for the show. Everything from the lowest priced sets to the most costly cabinet sets will be shown.

There follows a list of sets to be seen at the show:

Crosley, Atwater Kent, Majestic, Steinite, Grebe, Graybar, Freshman, Zenith, Radiola, Sparton, Brunswick, Fried Eisemann, Sonora and Kolster.

CHURCH SERVICES FAVORED BY LISTENERS OF FINLAND

Helsingfors, Finland, Sept. 25—Church services are preferred to jazz by Finnish listeners.

Questionnaires sent out by Finland's broadcasting station also showed that lectures of educational and cultural value and news topics were next in favor.

Listeners have expressed universal approval of the playing of the kantele which takes first place on the music list. The kantele is an old national musical instrument with a beautiful tone. It is shaped somewhat like a horizontal harp.

After the kantele the listeners placed songs, orchestra music, theatrical performances, operas and the teaching of languages.

RADIO FIREWORKS

Lille, Sept. 25—The Lille station recently broadcast a fireworks display. Listeners were advised to shut their eyes and imagine the scene as they listened to rockets soaring skyward, wheels of fire turning, and giant crackers spluttering and banging.

STATION'S NEW WAVE LENGTHS

Radio stations of the United States and changes that will take place under the reallocations of the federal radio commission are given below. Only stations that can be heard in Marion and those of more than 500 watts power are listed. Save this and use it for a radio log.

DAMROSCH SERIES OF 48 CONCERTS PLANNED

Walter Damrosch, musical counselor of the National Broadcasting Co., has worked out a plan whereby he hopes to bring symphonic music to the school children of the United States, according to an announcement from the NBC.

For six weeks Damrosch has been working out the details of his plan at his summer home in Bar Harbor. He is to radiocast 48 concerts beginning Oct. 26, through arrangements with the Radio Corporation of America and over the National Broadcasting system. The concerts are to be in four series graded according to the mental development of young people from the third grade through high school and college.

"The first series will be for children in the third and fourth grades, the second for the fifth and sixth grades and the third for the seventh grade and junior high school, and the fourth for high schools and colleges.

RADIO BLAMED FOR POOR ATTENDANCE AT GAMES

Portland, Ore., Sept. 25 — Because folk stay home to hear the big games on the radio, when otherwise they would go to the little ones, some of the graduate managers of northwest college athletics wish broadcasting of Conference games discontinued. Jack Benefiel, of Oregon, said that when Southern California played Notre Dame, at Chicago, the radio crippled attendance at every other game in the country.

CITY HALL RADIO

Paris, Sept. 25—The Paris city hall is to have its own radio receiver, to be placed in an office of the building which will be devoted entirely to radio. The city officials will find relaxation there, after sessions and will be able while listening to the music to look through the large collection of periodicals and magazines dealing with radio

VARIETY, GOOD RECEPTION FOR LISTENERS-IN

That's What Radio Commission Hopes for in New Allocations

Washington, Oct. 2—Good reception clear across the country. More variety of programs. A station in any part of the dial. Interference largely eliminated. New tuning habits for the 25,000,000 to 50,000,000 radio listeners.

That is what the last scientific broadcasting plan will mean to the family gathered about the receiving set, if confident expectations of the Federal Radio Commission are realized, experts declared today.

To make the plan effective Nov. 11 manifold changes in equipment and operation are being prepared for at the commission and in most of the country's 600 broadcasting stations. They are about of harnessing the more or less unguided energies of the youthful radio giant and holding them to useful service, at the same time meeting commands of Congress.

Careful clearing of high power channels ordered as part of the new setup should enable east coast listeners with good sets to hear KFI Los Angeles at any time in the evening, commission officials said. Likewise west coast listeners should have no trouble dialing WEAF and WJZ with clarity and without fading.

All 40 of these stations probably will use 50,000 watt power, under the commission's provision for experimental use of power above the authorized maximum of 25,000 watts. Each of them will have a clear channel to itself. So will 70 other stations, having power ranging down to 5,000 watts.

Good Coverage

Even 50,000 watt stations according to the experts, should give high grade reception 40 miles away where they are located in cities. Those in rural districts should be heard plainly 100 miles away.

With all these stations considered certain to operate without interference from others, listeners in most regions will have a considerably wider choice of programs from high powered stations alone, according to the official view.

A slight turn of the dial should tune one out and another in, as most of them will be close together as to frequency.

To permit the largest possible number of stations to operate in congested areas, regional and local stations will be "bunched" and distributed in different parts of the dial.

To carry the program variety still

RADIO STARS WILL MAKE CONCERT TOUR

Personal Appearances Arranged for Broadcasting Folk; Two Groups Planned

Two groups of widely-known radio artists will go on a tour of personal concert appearances early in the fall. Announcement of this has been made by George Engles, managing editor of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau.

"The tours have been arranged as the result of a demand on the part of radio followers to see their favorite performers in person. They represent the beginning of a permanent movement on the part of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau to arrange for country wide personal appearance by the finest artists.

"A great ready-made concert audience is waiting for these artists," Engles explained. "It consists of hundreds of thousands of radio fans to whom their names have become household words through frequent appearance before the microphone. There is no doubt that these fans will prove ready to patronize radio artists in the concert hall. The public is eager to see in person those individuals whom it hears over the radio."

The first unit of the two groups of radio artists who will go on tour is made up of Graham McNamee, internationally known announcer and baritone, the National Light Opera Quartet, Arcadie Birkenholz, violinist, Mathilde Harding, pianist, Katherine Tift Jones, diseuse, and Georgia Pace, harpist.

The second unit includes Gladys Rice, soprano, the South Sea Islanders, the Bonnie Laddies Vocal Trio, Christine Phillipson, violinist, Happy Harry Hayden and Kathleen Stewart, pianist.

FINAL PLANS OUTLINED FOR 3-DAY EVENT

Exhibits and Entertainment To Be Presented at Star Auditorium

EXPECT LARGE CROWDS

Attendance of Approximately 10,000 Predicted for Three Dates

Marion's first radio show will open Wednesday night in The Marion Star auditorium for a three day display of all that is new and modern in the way of radio equipment.

The show is being sponsored by the Marion Radio Trade association, an organization formed about two weeks ago for the purpose of sponsoring the show. As yet no officers have been elected for the organization, the work of arranging the show being carried on by a number of committees.

Fifteen dealers in the city constitute the membership of the newly formed organization. Each dealer will have a booth in the auditorium where his line of goods will be displayed for public inspection.

List of Participants

The dealers participating in the show follow:

The Bell Radio Co., Marion Electric & Supply Co., C. C. Brown, Van Atta Hardware Co., H. Schaffner Furniture Co., Jess Fowler, Ackerman Piano Co., [illegible] & Mantz, Lawrence Auto Supply Co., United Electric Co., Browne Tire store, Universal Tire & Supply Co., Marion Electric & Furniture Co., The Radio Shop, J. L. Rice and the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co.

The show will continue for three nights, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday on the scheduled dates. Attendance will reach 10,000, it has been predicted by those planning the show.

Dealers are optimistic over the success for the show after noting the success with which radio shows have been staged this year in other cities. In New York City attendance at the radio show is said to have exceeded that of the annual automobile show. Columbus radio dealers also report record breaking crowds at the show there.

Never in the history of radio has interest been so great as it is this fall is the report of radio dealers from all parts of the country.

[illegible]

With the introduction of new models and new features the daily "innovations" are going still over radio. Everything that is new in the field will be on display at the show here, is the promise of local dealers.

One thing that will be especially noticeable at the show will be the scarcity of the old battery sets, according to the dealers. To be in radio fashion now one must have an electric set, as the A and B batteries are practically a thing of the past. One of the newest things in the way of radio reproduction is the dynamic speaker. It will be one of the features at the show.

Local radio dealers are prophesying a banner year here. Already it is said, more sets have been sold this season than were sold up to last Christmas last year. Marion is becoming high strung, actually speaking, it is indicated by this trend.

Awards Scheduled

A radio set and other equipment is to be given away during the show. An admission price of 25 cents has been set for the show but tickets may be obtained free from any of the dealers. Special entertainment has been planned.

Plans for the show have been in charge of six one man committees. C. W. Browne, of the Browne Tire Store, heads the general committee. Henry Ackerman, of the Ackerman Piano Co., has arranged for the entertainment. H. O. Gruber, of the H. Schaffner Furniture Co., directed the advertising campaign. Abe Schreer, of the Universal Tire & Supply Co., is in charge of finances. The premium list has been arranged by Arthur Van Atta, of the Van Atta Hardware Co.

Marion Lawrence, of the Lawrence Auto Supply Co., one of the original promoters of the show and organizers of the radio trade association, directed the membership campaign.

PLANS U. S. HOOKUP

Radio Corporation to Broadcast at Sunday Dinner Hour

Announcement is made by Arthur T. Haugh, vice president of United Radio Corporation, that his company has just completed arrangements for fall broadcasting of a peerless period on a coast to coast hookup, which includes the red network of the National Broadcasting Co. and several supplemental stations, including the Pacific coast network.

"Our schedule calls for a unique program to be given at the Sunday dinner hour—a time which engages the interest of all the family—but which has been singularly devoid of good programs up to the present time," Haugh announces.

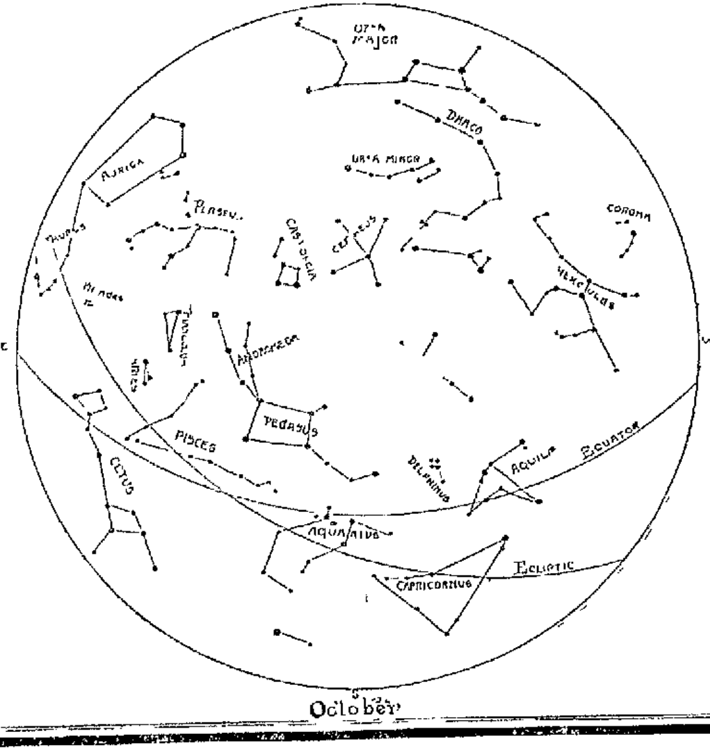
CUBA'S FINE STATION

Cuba expects to have one of the finest radio stations in operation before the first of the year. The station will be erected at Castillo del Principe, near Havana, and will be equipped with new and latest apparatus. An appropriation in excess of $200,000 has been set aside for the work.

Month of October Will Bring Hunter's Moon As One of Interesting Features; Total Eclipse Due in November

Study of Moon and Its Phases Fascinating in Details

BY PROF C. C. CRUMP
Director of Perkins Observatory,
Ohio Wesleyan University



October

THE month of October brings with it the Hunter's moon. There is no object in the sky that has quite so much interest to the average man as the moon. Even the sun, which is the source of all our well being, is eclipsed by the general interest in our satellite. From the time the moon appears in the western sky as a thin crescent until it grows large and round and is seen finally in the morning sky just before sunrise as a bow of light, it is an object of compelling interest.

It seems almost absurd to have to recognize the fact that many people do not know why the moon has phases. Not long since I asked a man why we did not see the whole disc of the moon when the moon was new. He replied (with the conviction that only ignorance can give) that the reason the moon was a crescent was because of the fact that the earth cast its shadow on the moon and therefore we could only see the part which was in the sunshine.

Reason for Phases

The reason that the moon has phases is because the moon has no light of its own and as it travels around the earth in an elliptical orbit its changing position with reference to the earth and the sun which is illuminating it causes a different part of the lighted hemisphere to be visible from the earth.

There are times when the moon does move into the shadow cast by the earth. This causes an eclipse of the moon. Sometimes the entire image of the moon is immersed in the shadow and we have a total eclipse seen over half of the earth's surface. At other times the moon is only dipped into the earth's shadow and a partial eclipse occurs.

On the night of Nov 26-27 a total eclipse of the moon will be visible throughout the United States. For those who keep Eastern Standard time the total eclipse will begin at [illegible] a. m., Nov 27, and end at 4 [illegible] a. m. For those who keep Central Standard time the eclipse will occur at an hour earlier.

Still Visible

One of the interesting things to note during a total eclipse of the moon is that the moon is still seen even when the moon has moved entirely into the earth's shadow. The reason for this is the fact that the earth's atmosphere refracts sunlight into the cone and faintly illuminates the shadow. You will see the moon with a reddish cast for this reason.

Another interesting thing is to watch the shadow as it creeps over the moon's surface. The edge of the shadow seems darker than that part of the shadow away from the edge. This is undoubtedly due to contrast.

At the time of a lunar eclipse observations are made of the positions of faint stars which the moon obscures. This enables the position of the moon to be determined with a considerable degree of accuracy. These results are valuable in improving the tables from which the positions of the moon are taken. They also serve as a means for redetermining the distance to the moon and its size.

It is interesting to note the direction in which the moon moves with reference to the stars. We are accustomed to watch the full moon rise in the East and set in the West following the path given it by the turning of the earth on its axis. This is not the true motion of the moon. If you will note the position of the moon with reference to the bright stars after an interval of an hour or more you will find that the moon moves East

FREEDOM SOUGHT BY DR. FREDERICK COOK

Plea of Explorer Under Consideration of Federal Judge John M Killits

TOLEDO, Oct 2—The plea of Dr Frederick Cook [illegible] relief, Arctic explorer now serving a term [illegible] the present term [illegible] be released before the [illegible] was under consideration today by Federal Judge John M Killits, who sentenced him to a term of 14 years and 9 months after he had been found guilty in federal court, Fort Worth, Tex., of using the mails to defraud in an oil stock promotion scheme.

Dr Cook started serving the term in January of 1925 but previous to that time he had spent 14 months in jail awaiting trial. Had he been able or willing at that time to post security to cover a bond of $10,000 he would not have been confined to the jail, it is said. Now, however, he will receive credit for the 14 months spent behind bars.

That Dr Cook had extensive assets concealed which had they been posted as security for his bail would have been uncovered and seized by the receiver of his defunct company is the expressed opinion of federal officials here who declare their belief that rather than risk the loss of his hidden property Cook preferred to stay in jail.

That is the moot question which Judge Killits is considering, for he weighs the right of Cook to be free. In sentencing the explorer Judge Killits indicated he wanted to be sure that the UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Oct 2—Last month went on record as the driest September in Wyandot County in 20 years, according to a report of the local weather station which gives 96 hundredths of an inch as the total rainfall for the month. Two years ago 12.75 inches of rain fell in this month, that being the wettest September ever recorded in the annals of the county. Twenty years ago, in 1908, only 37 hundredths of an inch were recorded, this being the lowest record in 40 years.

Wesleyan Alumni Welcome "Professionalism" Probe

CLEVELAND, Oct 2—Alumni of Ohio Wesleyan university today welcomed enthusiastically a proposed investigation of charges that professionalism exists in the athletic teams of the Buckeye Athletic association. The proposal was made in a speech here last night by William J. Sanders, dean of men at Wesleyan, who spoke before the Olevenc club, Cleveland alumnus organization.

Recently O. C. Bird, Ohio university athletic director, stirred Ohio college athletic circles by charging that some schools in the B. A. A. give preference in granting scholarships to athletes. It is understood that Bird mentioned Ohio Wesleyan and Wittenberg college in his charges.

Sanders in his address, after denying the accusation, said he would demand that the presidents of the six colleges in the B. A. A. appoint an impartial committee to investigate.

He explained Wesleyan's plan of awarding scholarships. He declared that of 54 students receiving endowed awards only seven were athletes and that of 302 who are aided through scholarships [illegible] benefit only 22 play on Wesleyan's teams.

Radio Artists Are Found In Many Walks of Life

WHILE the stars of the Broadway stage walk the boards during the evening theater hours and sleep or play the rest of the day the stars of radio as is shown by those participating in the light operas of the weekly Philco hour may be found at work in offices and in one case even in a classroom.

Muriel Wilson comes to the Philco studio direct from the customs office down in lower Broadway where daring travelers are detected ever so often attempting to enter the United States with smuggled bracelets brooches and other trifles. Sometimes during vacations she tours the country with concert organizations.

Jessica Dragonette who has been Princess Helena O Mimosan and Francesca Rosena and other noted light opera lead characters in The Royal Vagabond The Geisha and The Spring Maid has increased her work outside the radio in concert singing since her famous song Memories the work of Henry M Neely and Harold Sanford of the Philco group was put on a phonograph record.

Norman Jolliffe bass baritone for Philco teaches music at Columbia University and Sundays departs from light opera roles long enough to sing sacred music at the Marble Collegiate church in Fifth avenue.

Colin O More popular tenor of this outfit has no other known occupation but he has a decided hobby for preparing the family meal when Mrs. O More will let him in the kitchen.

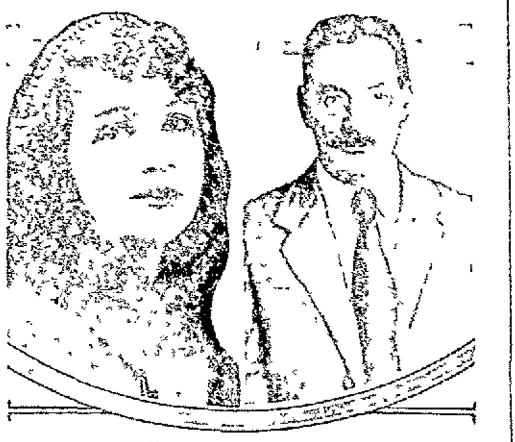
Sea Captain's Daughter to Star in "Tristram" on The Eveready Hour



THE ACTRESS THE AUTHOR

Joan Lowell above and the famous American poet Edwin Arlington Robinson whose book will be broadcast with the Wagner music on Tuesday night radio feature

"TRISTRAM," the narrative poem by Edwin Arlington Robinson based on the immortal story of Tristram and Isolt, will be broadcast by the Eveready Hour this Tuesday evening, October 2nd.

Joan Lowell, gifted young actress, will make her radio debut in the part of Isolt. A cast of competent actors including Reginald Barlow has been engaged to enact the roles of the other characters.

The book, which won for Mr. Robinson his second Pulitzer Prize and which was a Literary Guild selection, has been specially adapted for radio presentation. As presented it will be in fact a musical synchronization of the Wagner music from "Tristan und Isolde" and the Arlington poem. Sections of the Wagnerian operatic score to be utilized will be the "Prelude," "Liebestod" and the love music from the second act. The musical selections will be played by an enlarged Eveready Orchestra with Nathaniel Shilkret conducting.

Tristram is the first Literary Guild book selected by the Eveready Hour under the arrangements announced a few days ago between the Eveready Hour and the Literary Guild of America for broadcasting certain books of the latter organization.

Miss Lowell's career has been unusually colorful. Born at sea, the daughter of a sea captain, she spent the first eighteen years of her life aboard her father's ship, chiefly among the South Sea Islands. In Mexico City she was chosen Queen of the Spanish bull fights. Before coming to Broadway she appeared as leading woman with a famous stock company. Now a well known firm of publishers and a national magazine have contracted for the publishing and serial rights to a book she has written.

Light Set Sought for Use In Fighting Forest Fires

Washington, Sept. [illegible]—Radio, conqueror of the great expanses of sea and land, is to be used in combating the forest fires.

The forest service of the United States is investigating the development of radio apparatus which will function efficiently under the adverse transmission conditions in timber and mountain country.

The objective is the perfection of a radio system supplementing the present telephone, which would provide communication between crews camped at some distance from telephone lines and a central point, probably a lookout station or ranger headquarters. This requires the development of a sturdy, low power radio telephone or continuous wave phone and code transmitting set and a receiving set which could be readily transported on a pack animal and quickly set up.

DX-ing Radio Pastime Days Are Seen As "Gone Forever"

AMATEUR LOG GIVES OLD CALL LETTERS

Volume and Clarity of Tone Ends Now Sought by Fan

"BLOOPER" ONCE NUISANCE

Old Favorites Revealed in Book of 1923 and 1924; Recall Snodgrass

There's always the "good old days." And radio is not different in that regard.

Remember the days not so long when a fellow would carefully screw a pair of phones over his ears, turn up the filament in all three tubes, or maybe only one, and start out for a thrilling evening of DX-ing?

For the benefit of newcomers to the radio fold, the DX fan was the fellow who tried for distance, who made radio a game by jotting down the most stations he received in one evening. Of course he's condemned now. Radio programs are so commercialized and the receiver and receiving public so well educated to the best that only volume and clarity count these days.

Grand Dial Circuit Offered

It was only four and five short years ago that radio offered its greatest source of amusement, to this writer and to thousands of other listeners, in starting out on a grand circuit of the dials—two or maybe three—not one, as is popular and [illegible] [illegible].

Bloopers, that almost extinct [illegible] of the air, caused some [illegible] and sometimes every one within a range of [illegible] feet was "blooped" into [illegible] squeals before the [illegible] on an equally faint "[illegible] this is station ——," and then it faded or was lost in a bit of static and the process had to be repeated. Finally, however, the true DX fan by persistent and total [illegible] of the hours of the night or early morning collected a fine list of [illegible] and went to bed [illegible] in the [illegible]. Naturally the rest of the family made [illegible] of the value of radio and the neighbors and friends who came in to view the set were not tremendously impressed with the value of radio as an entertainment medium. But the DX fan was having the time of his life.

Today's radio entertainment consists largely of [illegible] from the dinner table, grasping the evening paper firmly in the left hand and with one [illegible] at the right the tumbler on an all-electric set is flipped and the clearest signal of a powerful nearby station is giving the best music that a New York, Cincinnati or Chicago studio can provide, loudly and clearly.

Log Reveals Old Favorites

But coming back to the DX days. A log was found the other day that was used to record a few night's delvings in the air back in December, 1923, and January, 1924. Not a few of the call letters are familiar, but many, once powerful exponents of radio broadcasting, are only forgotten call letters now.

For instance one evening's log explains that KDKA, the "pioneer station," was [illegible] a dance at [illegible] a price talk. WEAF, [illegible] a powerful broadcaster in [illegible], was offering a list of [illegible] from great distances [illegible] the DX listener [illegible].

WBZ, Springfield, being a prominent eastern station, was recorded presenting a news reading; WEAF, now the key station of the red network, was giving health talks on tuberculosis, WOR, now the head of the Columbia system, was playing the popular hit of the day, "I Love You." One of the strong Minnesota stations then was WCAL and "Kitten on the Keys" was a piano novelty being offered.

Then there was KFMQ, Fayetteville, Ark., a university station. WOC, still a favorite station at Davenport, offered a band concert; WHN, New York, hardly able to penetrate the high power of other eastern stations these days, came through with strength. WIAD, Philadelphia; WMAY, St. Louis; WCAP, Washington; WCK, St. Louis; KLZ, Denver; WQAQ, Abilene, Tex.; KFJM, Grand Forks, N. D.; WEAY, Houston; WIAS, Burlington, Ia.; WTAS, Elgin, Ill.; WLAG, Minneapolis; WPAM, Topeka, and many others were nightly visitors but not known to listeners of the last two or three years.

WOAW, Omaha, was recorded. The station now is WOW. WOAN, Lawrenceburg, Tenn., was frequently heard with volume.

Of the stations today, WOAI, San Antonio; WGY, Schenectady; WMAK, Lockport, N. Y., now of Buffalo; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WHAS, Louisville; WHB, Kansas City; WJAR, Providence; WGR, Buffalo; WOS, Jefferson City; WSB, Atlanta; PWX, Havana; WJAZ, Chicago; WDAF, Kansas City; WFAA, Dallas; WSAP, Ft. Worth; WLW and WSAI, Cincinnati; WCBD, Zion; WHAZ, Troy, N. Y.; WWJ, Detroit; WMC, Memphis, which came on the air early in 1924; KYW, Chicago; WTAM, Cleveland, and WRC, Washington, were frequently heard.

Forerunner of Present Programs

KFKB, Milford, Kan., caused a great deal of comment because of the advertising the station injected into its broadcasts, really a forerunner of what every large station gives its listeners today. WJAX, now call letters of a Jacksonville (Fla.) station, then belonged to a Cleveland station. WDAF was nationally known because of the Nighthawk frolic each night at midnight. It was WDAF's frolic that started the Nighthawks Orchestra, headed by Coon and Sanders, to present-day popularity.

WOS about that time offered the medium for Harry Snodgrass to literally make being a state prisoner in the Missouri Penitentiary pay royal dividends. Many remember Harry's "Three o'Clock in the Morning" piano solos. Basketball was even then being broadcast by WRM, Champaign, Ill. WJAK, then of Greentown, was operated by the "radio pastor." It is clearly shown in the record that KPO, Oakland, was a visitor now and then and at 10:40 p. m., January 22, 1924, some one was playing Rachmaninoff's "Prelude," followed by a baritone solo, "On the Road to Mandalay." Every male artist sang the Mandalay tune at least once every night in early broadcasting days.

That same January 22 marked WMC's opening program. Felicitations those days were exchanged over the air. The deep-toned voice of WOS's announcer explained that a selection was being dedicated to Lambdin Kay, a pioneer voice of the air from WSB.

The log goes back to the same time of year in 1923 when WSB, WOC, WDAF, WJAZ, WDAP, WWJ, KSD, and a number of pioneer eastern stations as KDKA, WGY, WEAF and WBZ supplied the bulk of the entertaining.

There will never be another "kick" in radio such as the one received when the voice of Kay, from WSB, came faintly through the phones for the first time with the afterward familiar "W-S-B, Atl-lan-ta, Georgia, the Journal covers Dixie like the dew." Atlanta was much farther from Indiana in 1924 than in 1928. With a one-tube set, it was much the same feeling as suddenly having a voice leap out of the loud speaker today with the astonishing words "This is Mars—broadcasting to the world—from the super-power station WONDER."

STEEL REPLACES BIG TOP FOR GREAT SHOW

Canvass has given away to steel in sheltering "the greatest show on earth!"

The big top show tent that used to spread over acres of arena wherein the wonders of the world were displayed has been replaced by a small steel box that now houses the means of bringing the greatest show on earth direct to the family hearthside at will. Just as the big top was known as the show tent, the little box is known as the showbox.

Showbox is the name recently given to the newest of modern radio receivers now being put on the market by the Crosley Radio Corp. It is an eight-tube AC electric receiver and a twirl of its single dial brings in the pick of the radio world's great shows, be they nearby or in some distant city.

FIVE STATIONS IN CHAIN

Five stations are operating as a chain on the Pacific coast. They are KJR, Seattle; KEX, Portland, Ore.; KGA, Spokane, Wash.; KYA, San Francisco, and KMTR, Los Angeles.

COPELAND ON AIR

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, U. S. senator of New York will give short talks through WJZ on the subject of pure food and health. He will be on the air on Wednesday and Thursday from 10 to 10:30 a. m.

Whys for Not Having Set Regarded About Exhausted

"I'm waiting to buy a radio set when they get through monkeying with them and when I can get what I want." How often that I've been said! And how many folk are depriving themselves of the pleasures of the air, the countless hours of diversion in an easy chair on a cold winter night!

First, this "one who waits" scoffed at the idea of owning a radio set because "they squealed." Then regeneration howls were eliminated. Then he complained of heterodyne noises caused by other stations. Powerful and selective receivers came to the assistance in that problem.

In the meantime he decided that batteries were a nuisance. Too much trouble and "they failed you just when your needed the set most or when your friends dropped in." And of course the AC set made its definite appearance. For a time "the one who waits" probably was stumped for a legitimate reason. But static was there to aid him in his hour of need.

This year sees perfected radio machinery—useless, it is true, on some occasions, when storm clouds bring electrical air disturbances that crash out of the loud speaker, but for the most part reducing static to a minimum and assisted by higher power back of the signals from the transmitting antennas.

And this year he again may be saved in his dogged opposition through the magical foreword of television.

Five years ago "the one who waits" started waiting. Radio is now a household necessity to a degree through the thousand and one services it brings—news, weather reports, market and stock reports, health messages, farm aids, correct time, etc.

Television is a long way off as far as common household use is concerned.

Yet it is safe to say that some will "wait." Having gone without all the pleasurable and inspirational hours that radio has brought thousands—growing thousands each year—the wait will continue.

Occasionally one of the old holdouts breaks and in a semi-foolish tone and wearing a slightly silly smile he comes sidling up to an "old-timer" and whispers: "I got KFI last night and I've only had the set three days" or "Was the weather bad last night or was my set acting up?"

No better time can be found and no time better spent than to see about a radio set today. A field of fun opens up that can be compared to nothing else in the amusement world. A new day of profitable instruction in every conceivable form of amusement and education is open to the receiving set owner.

RADIO FANS, NOTICE! HERE'S YOUR TOWN

Bunkie, La., Sept. 25—This little town of several thousands has an ordinance on its record book that prohibits operation of any instrument that will interfere with radio reception between noon and midnight. An inspector has been appointed to enforce the law.

The ordinance says that "it shall be unlawful for any person to operate any instrument, device or machine of any kind whatsoever, the operation of which shall cause electrical interference with radio reception, within the limits of the town of Bunkie, La., between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 12 o'clock midnight on any day."

Penalty for violation is a fine of $25 or imprisonment for not more than ten days, or both.

10,000-WATT STATION IS CONSTRUCTED IN JAPAN

Washington, Sept. 25.—A 10,000-watt broadcasting station is operating in Kumamoto, Japan. Henry Hitchcock, United States consul, has informed the department of commerce. The new station has the call letters JOGK and broadcasts on 380 meters.

Mr. Hitchcock says it is expected that the new broadcasting facilities will increase the Japanese demand for receiving sets. Up to the present, few sets have been sold, owing to the poor reception from stations over the mountains in central and eastern Japan.

STATION AT HONGKONG

A radio broadcasting station with a completely equipped studio will be established at Hongkong. The call letters are GOW and will use a wavelength of 300 meters. It is proposed to broadcast programs relayed by short waves from London.

5,000 MILE STATION PLANNED BY BRITISH

Radio Plant Would Be Final Link Circling World

London, Sept. 25.—To forge the last link in a globe circling wireless chain, the installation of a super power radio station at Canberra, Australia, has been recommended by the British imperial wireless committee.

The new station would have a transmitting radius of 5,000 miles. The nearest British stations of similar power are at Singapore and Hongkong.

The central station in the empire's network of beam radio stations is at Hillmorton, near Ruby, England. From there circuits are now operated by the government to Bombay, India; Capetown, South Africa; Montreal, Canada; and Melbourne, Australia. A short time ago beam radio service was established between Montreal and Melbourne.

Direct short wave service between East Africa and England has just been opened in the colony of Kenya. It is planned to establish similar service to embrace continental Europe and probably American destinations.

British wireless will also penetrate the jungles of Africa. The British East African Broadcasting Company, which holds the concession on the present service, is working on the problem of developing internal communications in Kenya and Uganda.

AMOS 'n' ANDY HEARD ALL OVER COUNTRY

The adventures of Amos 'n' Andy, the blackface team of Correll and Gosden, at WMAQ, are now being followed by thousands of listeners spread throughout the country without means of wires or chain broadcasting. Electrical reproduction apparatus has been placed in twelve leading stations to present the recordings of their adventures simultaneously with their personal appearance before the microphone of WMAQ in Chicago.

The blackface team is heard from St. Paul to Dallas on the north and south and from San Francisco on the west to Providence, R. I., on the eastern seaboard.

According to recent estimates there are probably 1,000,000 persons throughout the United States engaged in the varied activities of radio broadcasting from 5?3 stations. This would be an average of one broadcaster for every twelve receiving sets in the country.

Affiliated with the several largest stations is an average staff of 1000 including artists, musicians, arrangers, technicians and radio engineers. About 170 people are engaged in the broadcasting of the Palmolive Hour from WEAF every Friday evening. In all about 600 voices a month face the microphone in the stations of the National Broadcast Company. Among them are ministers, lecturers and prominent men and women as well as regular entertainers who make up the leading programs.

LEADERSHIP— won in a year!

Now Every Minute Sees Another GENERAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR Placed In Some American Home

THE General Electric Refrigerator was first announced just fifteen months ago. At that time, these refrigerators were being placed in homes at the rate of one a day. Now they are going into American homes at the impressive rate of one a minute, every day.

A Nation-Wide Organization Has Been Created

At the beginning of 1927, fourteen dealers handled the General Electric Refrigerator. Today there are more than 5500. Where only 70 people were engaged, today there are 11,500.

This swift but sound growth is a tribute to the newest product of the Research Laboratories of General Electric—a complete justification for the fifteen years of research and experiment which were put into the development of this "years ahead" refrigerator.

Public Preference Has Been Won

The miracle of general public acceptance, all in a year's time, has come to pass—an acceptance which is keeping nine factories running at top speed.

Thanks are due to the foresight of the electric light and power men of the nation who have brought electric service to eighteen million homes. They have made it possible for General Electric Refrigerators, in ever-growing numbers, to aid in reducing the annual seven hundred million dollar loss in food spoilage in American homes.

The General Electric Refrigerator is entirely different from all others. All its mechanism is on top, in an hermetically sealed steel casing

These refrigerators are unusually quiet, and they never need oiling. They are made and guaranteed by General Electric.

Shown Throughout Nation from 1,500,000 Sets; Regionalize Programs

Washington, Sept. 25—In the federal government's desire to carry the gospel of agricultural expansion to the far corners of the United States by radio, three new features in the programs for farmers have come on the air, Morse Salisbury, chief of the radio service of the department of agriculture announced. Five of the features which have been broadcast for the last two years will be continued, with some alterations designed to make them meet more closely the needs of farmers and home makers during the 1928-29 season.

The new features are listed under the titles "United States Radio Farm Forum," "Outdoors with the Scientists" and "Farm Science Snapshot."

Last year 149 broadcasting stations handled the farm features. This year, owing to the reduction in stations by the federal radio commission, upward of 100 stations will handle the programs. As more than 1,500,000 receiving sets are in use on farms the audience for these features will be large, Director Salisbury said.

Will Regionalize Programs

The most important innovation in the service for farmer listeners will be a regionalization of the programs. Each of the five major farming zones, into which the country has been divided for purpose of program-making, will have programs specially adapted to it. The cotton belt member of Uncle Sam's radio family will hear timely and pertinent discussions of the problems of his region; the corn belt farmer, the members of the hay and pastures region of the northeast and those of the great plains Rocky mountain area and on the Pacific coast will have special programs of value.

The "Farm Forum" will be a daily meeting of a radio club for the discussion of farming problems. The first weekly period will be devoted to discussion of live stock subjects, the second week to poultry, the third week to crops, the fourth week to dairying and the fifth will contain three series, one each on general farm economics subjects, on forestry needs of the farmer and on agricultural engineering topics.

From the weather bureau and the bureaus of entomology and biological survey, the weekly feature, "Outdoors with the Scientist," will bring listeners fascinating stories of plant, animal and insect life, and now the vagaries of the weather are figured out by meteorologists. The emphasis is upon the effects on our daily lives of the activities of these outdoor scientists.

"Farm Science Snapshots" will carry a weekly digest of the vital announcements coming from the vast field of scientific agricultural research.

ECHO ELIMINATION IS RADIO ESSENTIAL

Ideal Room and Arrangement Described for Loud Speaker

The ideal room for the location of the radio loud-speaker would be one designed similar to the broadcasting station studio.

Large rooms, as a rule, have poor acoustic properties. Speech or music ensuing from the reproducer is forced against the walls of the room at various angles and reflected back a fraction of a second later—not tardy enough to be noticed but important enough to destroy the natural reproduction of the speech or music.

Modulated tones from the speaker are as near naturalness as possible. This, of course, is dependent on the quality of transmission from the transmitting station and the efficiency of the radio receiver employed.

If the sounds from the speaker are absorbed by the walls of the room, instead of reflected, the quality of reproduction is nearly perfect.

Where it is impossible, as it is in most cases, to drape the radio room with heavy curtains for absorbing the sound, moving the reproducer to different points in the room oftentimes will improve reproduction. It should never be placed in an angle or corner of the room as this will tend to reflect the sound to the opposite corner, giving more chance of echo.

Smooth surface painted walls have been found to have undesirable reflecting qualities. Papered or rough surfaces will not cause the echo effect as readily as those which are smooth.

Most cone speakers are designed to radiate sound in all directions. For this reason it is desirable to place them from one to two feet from the adjacent wall.

Loud-speakers also should be mounted on objects which are not likely to resonate at a certain frequency or tone. Hollow pieces of furniture will sometimes contain an air chamber frequency, causing excessive amplification of tone. This results in blasting.

Mounting the speaker on some soft material such as felt will help.

Reproducers should not be placed atop of radio set cabinets. Not only will the cabinet tend to resonate, but other troubles are frequently encountered. Mechanical vibrations may be set up in the tube of the receiver set due to the direct contact of the speaker with the cabinet. These mechanical vibrations in the tubes when inaudible cause distortion, gradually building up in volume to a tremendous howl.

Experts Study Effect of Aurora Borealis on Radio

Washington—When Aurora Borealis, master showman of the northern skies, puts on a spectacle like that of the night of July 7, short wave radio communication is paralyzed.

The brilliant display of northern lights was accompanied by the worst magnetic storm in years and disruption of the long distance, high frequency radio circuits throughout the world. Operators at navy radio central say that signals, which usually come in strong and clear at night from the high powered stations at San Francisco, Honolulu and Balboa sputtered feebly and then died out. Even local amateurs could not be heard. Observers of the naval research laboratory say the breakdown in communications was almost universal, Buenos Aires, the great British beam, and other stations fading out. The long waves also were adversely affected by the magnetic disturbances.

Two Theories

Just what happens to the short waves while the aurora is in action is still a matter of scientific speculation, physicists and radio experts declare. E. O. Hulburt of the naval research laboratory, who has made intensive studies of the upper atmosphere, gives what he describes as two reasonably plausible explanations of the effect of the aurora on the short radio waves.

One theory is that the ionized heaviside layer, which reflects short waves back to the earth, has been wiped out or becomes so thin, there is nothing to reflect the waves and they disappear in the upper atmosphere. Another explanation is that the ionized layer has become of such a density it absorbs the waves.

LESSONS OVER RADIO IS EDUCATOR'S PLAN

One Teacher for Many Schools Ideas; Parents To Listen In

Pittsburgh Pa., Sept. 25—Visions of being able to remain abed and "tune in" on classes may have come to the minds of Pittsburgh school children since the announcement that this city was to have public school instruction by radio.

Such, however, is far from the intention of Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of schools and sponsor of the radio instruction idea. Dr. Davidson believes it will enable one teacher, broadcasting from a central station, to instruct classes throughout the city. The superintendent also hopes the plan will bring the school and home into closer touch in that parents will be able to "sit in" at the classes.

The project provides for the location of a broadcasting station in the school administration building, and the board of public instruction has already approved Dr. Davidson's recommendation that the necessary apparatus be installed.

TRACE CHICAGO FIRE

The picture of the Chicago fire will be traced by an eyewitness at 7:25 Saturday night over WMAQ, Chicago.

SINGING RAIL FIREMAN BUSY AS RADIO ARTIST

Howard Melaney, the singing fireman of the Northern Pacific railway, probably is the most traveled and busiest radio artist in America today. He sings to a million persons every week from six outstanding stations and travels 4,000 miles weekly to keep these engagements.

Two years ago Melaney was an obscure locomotive fireman employed in Montana on one of the large engines drawing the Northern Pacific's transcontinental train, the North Coast Limited. By chance, while he was singing to himself as he oiled the cups on the locomotive at one of the Montana stations, he was overheard by a music critic who soon arranged for his first radio appearance at Minneapolis.

Today Melaney's lyric tenor voice has been carried to millions of homes in America by radio. He has sung at fifty radio stations from WJZ, New York to KGW, Portland. His weekly program includes, Monday, WLS, Chicago; Tuesday, WKEN, Buffalo, N. Y.; Wednesday, WHK, Cleveland; Thursday, WTMJ, Milwaukee; Friday, WCCO, Minneapolis, and Saturday, WAAF, Kansas City.

Engineer Warns Fans Against Investing in Freak Equipment

New York, Sept 27—Sounding a warning that the eagerness of the public in accepting the transmission and reception of radio images may lead to the sale of many thousands of dollars of radio image equipment from which little can be expected, Radio Retailing in a summary of the situation by Edgar H Felix prominent radio engineer points out that dealers in such equipment should be most explicit in informing buyers on the limitations of apparatus now on the market

Merely Moving Shadows

"For the present," Mr Felix says, "universal television consists of merely moving shadows, at best However backed up by enough stations broadcasting moving images and the public be informed of just how little they will receive and how crude the images are, even moving shadows can be merchandised It is undoubtedly a market for experimenters only and must continue as such for several years to come

The broadcasting of visual images is similar to tonal broadcasting in the means used for radiation and reception, but fundamentally different in the method by which the signals are collected at the transmitter and restored to their original form at the receiver A device, consisting usually of a photoelectric system, responds to variations in intensity of light, converting them into electric currents These variations are combined and radiated received and amplified and then converted back into original light impressions that they may be seen by the eye

It must be remembered that absolute synchronization must be maintained between the transmitter and the receiver This is accomplished usually by the use of synchronous motors at each end, but unless both motors are on the same power line, absolute synchronization is almost impossible to attain Where the motors are not on the same power line, synchronization is sought by hand manipulation of a variable rheostat connected with the receiving motor Advances in the art will undoubtedly correct some of these details At present however, they must be taken into consideration

Must Be Television Signal

"The principal radio vision products now being offered are scanning discs, neon lamps and still picture recorders To sell a neon lamp or disc in any given territory there must be available a television signal and a means of synchronizing with it so as to make a recognizable image with the particular disc being offered A 24 hole scanning disc is useless in a territory where only a signal intended for a 48 hole scanning disc is available

Television signals now being radiated are obtained by setting a subject before a bank of flood lights A scanning disc is used at the transmission point which reflects light from the subject point by point in a regular predetermined order to a photoelectric cell Inasmuch as all of the systems in use today depend upon reflecting a beam of light from the subject to a photoelectric cell the range of the 'eye of television' is necessarily limited The public imagines football games and prize fights coming before the eyes through television receiving devices but the most we can hope for, at the present time, are views of single faces"

BEST PLAYS, PLAYERS ARE HEARD BY RADIO

Creation of Greater Interest in Spoken Drama Is Seen; Progress Shown

Through the medium of radio the best plays and the most capable players of the American stage have been given to millions of persons, also other who would never have heard them The result, according to a number of New York theater executives, is to create a still greater interest in the spoken drama Persons hearing a famous play or a famous actor, by air, often desire to see the production or the player in his natural habitat behind the footlights, theater executives say

Records of the National Broadcasting Company reveal what has been done in radio drama

Hundreds of the best known modern plays have been put on the air from NBC stations In some instances the plays had radio production while still on Broadway stages Necessarily the radio audience is given condensed versions of the plays

Stardom of Broadway, a series of radio productions of current plays produced as a sustaining feature by the N B C is one of better known radio dramatic features Radio plays also have been produced in nationally known radio programs

Roster of Players

The roster of American actors who have appeared in radio dramas reads like "Who's Who on the American Stage" Among them are Lionel Atwill Basil Sydney, Mary Ellis Alfred Lunt Lynn Fontanne, Lillian Kemble Cooper Elsie Ferguson, Pedro de Cordoba, Lou Tellegen, Miriam Hopkins Madge Evans Mrs Minnie Maddern Fiske Nance O'Neil Eddie Cantor, Laurette Taylor Otis Skinner, Richard Bennett Alice Brady Judith Anderson, William A Brady Laura Hope Crews, Fritz Leiber Charles Gilpin Margaret Lawrence, Louis Mann, Marie Dressler Elizabeth Risdon Aline Berry Helen Lord Dorothy Dilley Queenie Smith Desiree Tabor Guy Robertson Earl Larrimore Leon Errol, Albert Carroll Ethel Louise Wright Ona Munson, Bobby Arnst Osgood Perkins Ellen Dorr Clarence Derwent Margalo Gillmore John Cromwell Edward A Robinson Roland Young, Dorothy Sands Joe Brown Charles Butterworth Elsie Janis Weber and Fields Fred Stone Dorothy Stone Leo Carillo George M Cohan George Arliss Al Jolson Katherine Emmet, Eleanor Painter, and dozens of others who have played brief moments before the microphone

Plays old and plays new are included in the list of radio dramatic productions Among the Broadway plays to go on the air during the last season were "Our Betters," "The Witch" "The Queen's Husband" "Excess Baggage" "The Racket," "The Play's the Thing" "The Ivory Door" "The Great Adventure" "The Silver Cord" "Loose Ankles" "Abie's Irish Rose" "Two Girls Wanted" "Dracula" "The Silent House" "A Free Soul" "The Second Man" "The Barker" and "The Outsider"

Cycle of Year Changes, Winter's Coming; Waterfowl to Run Gauntlet of Shot

BY PROF. ALLEN C CONGER
(Department of zoology,
Ohio Wesleyan University)

WHO can doubt the approach of winter now Woodlands are turning to flame and gold The tang of leaf smoke is in the evening air Long rows of corn shocks stand guard over heaps of Hallowe'en pumpkins The katydids and crickets and even the fiddling grasshopper must be aware that the cycle of the year is changing Surely the birds know it From the great marshes of the north comes the vanguard of an army of waterfowl to run the gauntlet of shot from duckboat and blind The cries of geese and of ducks may float down from the darkness of the night sky and tell us of the coming of foul weather and our first snow

As the bird population deserts northern forests the migratory birds of prey travel southward and the migration of hawks is noted The blue darters Cooper and Sharp-shinned Hawks are on the move now seeking their victims among the defenseless species of song birds which are being pressed south by the approach of winter

The Swallows and the Night hawk have already gone and now our sky seems bare for Chimney Swifts are no longer circling and chattering above the treetops Their winter home still is an unsolved question We would hardly give credence to the idea that they fly to the moon or plunge into the mud at the bottom of our lakes yet not so long ago [illegible] literally proposed such facts [illegible]

The Phoebes which linger by our bridges and the Crested Flycatchers hasten to join their other flycatcher relatives in more southern climes The Blackbirds which began to flock in mid-August are nearly all gone The Cowbirds have departed and only a few Bronzed Grackles remain perhaps to winter in southern Ohio

Just as September is Warbler month we must dedicate October to the Sparrow tribe We may hear the evening hymn of the sweet-voiced Vesper Sparrow The yellowish Savannah Sparrow and the tiny Grasshopper Sparrow leave their homes in our dry upland fields From more northern regions we welcome once more our friends, the clear-whistling White-throat and the regal White-crowned Sparrow The brownish Swamp Sparrow and the big handsome Fox Sparrow also stop for a few weeks Late in the month our little friend Chipping Sparrow and the Field Sparrow of our countryside both leave us Towhees (Chewinks) become scarce and we look in vain for the bright blue of the Indigo Bunting The reappearance of Tree Sparrows and Juncos is further evidence of the near approach of winter for they were our last acquaintances on a mild day last January

Meet Thrushes Again

The Vireo clan leisurely seekers of insects among the foliage of trees now seeks more productive hunting grounds where frost will not paint the leaves and then send them tumbling down The bright Brown Thrasher, which whistled and sang from treetops and dashed into the thicket of the fence row has gone to join the Catbird in a visit to their southern cousin the Mockingbird The busy little House Wren which scolded and sang from the nest box under the garage eaves bids us au revoir until next spring Roving bands of Golden-crowned and Ruby-crowned Kinglets pay an autumn visit to our orchard trees there to search for overwintering stages of insect pests hidden in crevices of the bark Much we owe to these restless creatures whose never-ending quest for food leads them to our cultivated plants

October is the month in which to renew acquaintance with those thrushes which went north last spring to nest. The Hermit Thrush [illegible] famous vocalist of the [illegible] for a while and the Olive-backed and Gray-cheeked Thrush [illegible] lingering in our quiet woodlands There is much interest for the bird student to [illegible] migration daily [illegible] in store in the [illegible] October

CROSLEY RADIO

Frankly Speaking

A radio set that operates from a storage battery is a losing proposition in any home that is wired for electricity. Not only is its owner missing the splendid reception which is given by Crosley A. C. Electric Sets, the wonderful tone quality and volume of the new Crosley Dynacone, but he has a set on his hands which is depreciating in value daily.

While the season is yet young, before battery sets become a drug on the market—while there is still a chance to get out from under—why not come in and talk the matter over with us. You will like the new Crosley Sets, and marvel at the new Crosley Dynacone.
